LONDON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Edward VIII was proclaimed to the people of his kingdom and of his empire today, "By the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas, king, defender of the faith, emperor of India."

The boyish-appearing monarch watched from a window of St. James's palace long his home, while England was told, by a mediocrally garbed officer of arms who read from a parchment scroll, that he was king.

He stepped out on to a balcony, pale and thoughtful while a great crowd cheered him, went back into the palace and within a few minutes was at Buckingham palace a few hundred yards away, briskly, in morning dress, talking business with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin while a procession as of ancient times moved on through the city to proclaim him king.

LONG'S FORCES WIN, CELEBRATE

Precincts Count Enough Votes
to Show Lead

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Huey P. Long's political machine was in absolute control of Louisiana for four more days today on the basis of incomplete returns from yesterday's Democratic primary. They indicated a landslide victory for the machine's candidates.

Returns came in very slowly from the Long-controlled election boards throughout the state, and charges of wholesale fraud had been made even before the precincts closed. Long officials here counted only enough to show their candidates leading, before stopping for the night.

The count of the vote of 308 precincts of the state's 1,049, including 250 in New Orleans, gave Appellate Judge Richard W. Leche, Long candidate for governor, 107,459 against 40,558 for Congressman Cleveland Dear, the anti-Long candidate. The Long counters didn't bother to tabulate the votes for other offices, but it was indicated that the margin of other Long men was approximately the same.

Soon after midnight the Long politicians and workers went to a hotel for a celebration which after a few hours was becoming noisy and mildly incoherent. The count of ballots will continue today.

CITY WORKERS FROM RURAL AREAS WORRY

City workers who live in rural districts were puzzled Wednesday afternoon to know if they would reach their homes after work.

Many reported crossing snow-drifts Wednesday morning but the blizzard had not started at that time. Although county and state employees were busy on their branches of the county highway chain information could not be obtained as to what work had been done on township roads.

ALLISON NOT TO SEEK LEADERSHIP OF CLUB

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—M. Ray Allison, state director of finance, and president of the League of Young Democratic Clubs of Ohio, today announced he would not be a candidate for reelection. Allison said his duties as finance director in Governor Davey's cabinet required all of his time, and for that reason would be unable to accept the league's presidency for another two-year term.

KELLER ENTERS BOARD CONTEST

Scioto-Twp Farmer Seeking
Democratic Nomination

The already large list of candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for two county commissioner jobs was swelled again today by announcement of John B. Keller, Scioto-twp, that he is in the race. Mr. Keller obtained his petition Tuesday afternoon and immediately placed it in circulation.

Mr. Keller has been a farmer and thresherman for 25 years; he served two terms as township trustee, and is now acting as a township school board member for the third term. He lives 10 miles northwest of Circleville on Route 104.

His announcement makes six in the race on the Democratic side of the ticket, while the Republicans are "just watching," to quote a party leader. Others who announced include: Ralph E. May, Circleville-twp, incumbent; William H. Cline, Muhlenberg-twp; William Beavers, Circleville and Scioto-twp; Leonard G. Schleich, Monroe-twp, and John Bailey, Monroe-twp. A candidate from the Ashville community has also been rumored as ready to file his declaration.

Burr H. Rader, Pickaway-twp, incumbent, has not taken any definite steps toward possible candidacy. Mr. Rader is now on the board for the second term, having served four years several years prior to election to his present term.

ACTRESS, BRIDE OF FOUR MONTHS, LEAVES HUSBAND

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Dark-eyed Sylvia Sydney of the movies today disclosed her marriage of four months duration to Bennett Cerf, New York publisher, had "gone on the rocks" and they were separating.

"My husband and I have separated," she declared. "The separation dates from Jan. 9, when I left New York."

Miss Sydney explained that they decided the marriage had been a mistake and agreed to part.

"We have made no plans for a divorce," she added. "But I can see hope of a reconciliation."

NEW VOLUNTARY A. A. A. IS READY FOR HOUSE VOTE

Broad Powers Given Secretary of Agriculture in Revised Erosion Law

PAYMENTS ARE PROVIDED

Present Set-Up to Execute Act; Jones, Bankhead Present Text

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Broad powers to control withdrawal of acreage from production and to make payments to farmers voluntarily cooperating were provided in the administration's bill to replace AAA, prepared for submission today to congress.

The program, which will be introduced as a bill amending the soil erosion act of 1935 in both the senate and house, grants the secretary of agriculture broad powers to control soil improvements and withdrawal of acreage from crop production.

To Be Voluntary

It provides a system of payments and aid grants to crop producers who comply with the program voluntarily.

The bill carries no appropriation but merely authorizes the secretary of agriculture to make such payments as are necessary to carry out the program.

The bill provides that the secretary of agriculture shall have the power to make payments or grant other aid to farmers based upon, first, their acreage of soil improving or erosion preventing crops, second, their acreage of crop lands, three, changes in the use of their land and, four, a percentage of their normal production of any

SHANER NAMED TO STATE POST

Ex-Safety Chief Succeeds
Herdman as Time-Keeper

L. T. Shaner, safety director in the administration of W. B. Cady, former mayor, has been appointed timekeeper at the local highway garage.

His appointment was made by F. M. Turner of Washington C. H., engineer of District 6 which includes eight counties.

Mr. Shaner succeeds Robert Herdman of Washington C. H., who has been transferred to the Delaware office.

FESS FORECASTS NATION TO AGAIN PICK ROOSEVELT

CINCINNATI, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Former Senator Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, O., expressed the opinion here today that President Roosevelt would be re-elected.

"I doubt if any Republican candidate can defeat him," Fess, Ohio Republican leader, said.

Fess, however, said he believes the country will be divided into two sides in the coming political campaign, not along traditional party lines, but into New Deal and anti-New Deal forces.

The next congress, Fess predicted, probably will be composed largely of anti-New Dealers "who will effectually block the spendthrift policy of the present administration."

Prohibition, the veteran Republican believes, is a dead issue.

AUTO THIEF REMOVES PARTS; CAR IS 'GHOST'

URBANA, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Alan Squire's automobile is only a shell of its former self. A thief who worked on the car as it stood in front of the Squire home took the fuel pump, carburetor, generator, manifold, radiator hose and connections, and the radiator anti-freeze.

BONUS IS READY FOR EXECUTIVE; VETO EXPECTED

House Completes Action, Accepting Senate's Method of Payment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Congress slammed the $2,237,000,000 Soldiers bonus bill through the formalities of final passage today and prepared to do it all over again if necessary to over-ride a presidential veto.

The house completed action on the measure, providing for payment in baby bonds which may be cashed immediately or held as an investment, when it accepted the senate method of payment and dispatched the measure to the White House.

The overwhelming house majority in favor of the bill emphasizes the belief of congress that it could pass the measure over a presidential veto. This attitude was based on the 74 to 16 senate vote in favor of the bill. The veto and final vote may come early next week.

The original house bill, passed with only 56 dissenting votes, called for immediate full cash payments, but failed to specify how the money should be raised. The senate measure was substituted.

The bill that now goes to the White House provides for payment in $50 bonds, cashable in full after June 15, or they may be held drawing three per cent interest until 1945, the original time for payment of the adjusted service certificates.

The bill provides no means of raising the money to pay the bonus, but as yet there has been no definite indication of whether new taxes will be required.

SEARCHERS SCAN ATLANTIC FOR SIX ON MISSING PLANE

RURAL SCHOOLS CLOSE AT NOON; TRAFFIC HALTED

30 Cars Reported in Traffic
Tangle West of City;
Others Blocked

ZERO MARK IS PREDICTED

High Wind Drives Snow from
Fields Over Various Principal Highways

A severe blizzard lashed Pickaway-co Wednesday paralyzing rural traffic and causing dismissal of nearly all county schools.

Roads in all sections of the county were blocked with snow-drifts, many four feet deep, and highway workers found most of their work in clearing them useless because of the high wind.

Few school buses were able to cover their entire route and in order to get the children home before more roads were blocked the majority of the schools dismissed at noon. Buses in Scioto-twp were sent back with the children as soon as they arrived at the building. Officials were unable to say if they would be open Thursday.

30 Cars in Tangle

The worst conditions were on east and west roads, workers reported. Route 22 just west of the city was closed for two hours because of a huge drift. Two trucks were trapped in the snowbank and workers estimated 30 cars were figured in the traffic snarl.

All equipment of the highway department and county was being used. Roads reported clear earlier in the morning were closed a few hours later and accurate checks on open roads were practically impossible to obtain.

Charles Mowery, superintendent of state roads in the county, reported Routes 22 and 56 were open at noon but added "it is impossible for us to say if we will be able to keep the roads open." Route 23 was clear throughout the morning.

Like Sand Dunes

The blizzard, in addition to adding two inches of snow to the seven inches already on the ground, shifted drifts from fields into highways. The condition was that similar to a sand dune country.

Ohio was warned by W. H. Alexander, state meteorologist, to prepare for the severe cold wave of the season. The cold wave that centered Tuesday night over the northern part of the nation is moving eastward rapidly and will center over Ohio Wednesday night.

The forecast was for cloudy conditions and much lower temperatures tonight with more snow. Indications were Thursday would be fair and continued cold.

Northern Ohio temperatures were expected to drop to about 10 degrees below zero. Zero temperatures were forecast for central Ohio

ISLAND PRISON STRIKE HALTED BY QUICK MOVE

Warden Tells "Major" Criminals to Go to Work, or Go Without Food

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22—(UP)—Resentment against steel-handed regulations shouldered among the cell blocks of Alcatraz island federal penitentiary today as officials sought to restore operations to normal following the prison's first serious mutiny.

Guards redoubled vigilance and approximately half the convict population of the government's "Devil's island" for the nation's most notorious criminals was locked in solitary confinement.

Warden James A. Johnson declared the demonstrations were "merely a break in our routine."

Rations Reduced

"It's a question of the men or the officials running Alcatraz," he declared, announcing plans to quell the bloodless revolt by placing the participants on bread and water rations or by refusing them food until they agree to work. "The men struck in the laundry, maintaining they wanted more privileges," he said. "What they actually wanted was laxity and looseness in the prison management."

"About 80 men went on strike Monday, and 20 more joined them Tuesday," Warden Johnson said. "Many did not strike of their own volition. There are many agitators within the convict ranks who fired them up."

"There was no violence and reinforcements of guards from the outside is not required."

The warden declined to name the men who participated in the revolt.

Rumors which have penetrated the silence which authorities have clamped down upon prison affairs, however, have indicated that many convicts, including Al (Scarface) Capone, George (Machine Gun) Kelly, Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and others listed as the country's most desperate criminals have been driven to the breaking point by the inflexible routine of the prison.

Silence Rule Cause

Information obtained from the warden and other sources indicated the outbreak consisted principally of violation of the Alcatraz silence rule, which some escaped or released prisoners have insisted forbids talking among the prisoners except for a brief period once a week, and refusal of laundry workers to do the work assigned them.

The warden admitted the prisoners had been "noisy," while other sources indicated they howled and shrieked their refusal to work when informed their demands had been refused.

It was indicated that guards and a number of prisoners learned of the anticipated outbreak in advance and that ringleaders were hunted out and given the alternative of continuing work or going to the prison dungeon.

Thus, if any violence was intended in original plans for the mutiny, it was forestalled before the demonstration began.

Alcatraz at present houses 259 prisoners.

Bonus Passage Brings Smiles to Leaders' Faces

MUTUAL congratulations are in order as senate leaders and veterans' chiefs celebrate overwhelming passage of the bonus bill in the senate, thereby indicating it would become a law whether President Roosevelt vetoes it or not. By a vote of 74 to 16 the senators approved the bill which proposes to pay the bonus in special $50 bonds, which veterans could cash or hold and

Another Husband-Wife Combination on Radio

Peggy Baker to Join Phil; Others Are Allens, Bennys, Olsens; Rubinoff on Air Five Years

THE HUSBAND-AND-WIFE comedy act idea is growing. Another Mrs. in the person of Mrs. Phil Baker now makes her air debut as program partner of her humorist husband.

Mrs. Baker, who was formerly Miss Peggy Cartwright, and a noted actress, thus follows in the trim footsteps of Mrs. Jack Benny (Mary Livingstone, to you) and Mrs. Fred Allen, whom you may Whether Peggy Baker will be "stooge" for her husband in the manner of Mrs. Benny or Mrs. Allen, you'll have to discover for yourself. Maybe not. The generous Baker doesn't mind playing the "stooge" himself as those who have followed his adventures with Beetle and Bottle know.

SIGNIFICANT of the change in attitude of broadcasters to their unseen audiences is seen in the increase of a more "folky" method of address. Broadcasters have always striven to please but from radio broadcast's inception until not so very long ago the "ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience" form of address was very common.

Announcers have, at last, gotten away from the idea they were talking to a vast audience from an ethereal lecture platform. Today they understand their public as they really are—people in their living room, willing and eager to be informed and entertained and not prone to quick criticism.

So it's "Listen, folks—". PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is apparently as interested in his radio fan mail as any other air star.

The chief executive recently commented, during a broadcast, on the amount of mail and information he had gained from it, which he received as a result of a previous speech over the air.

NOTES—Rubinoff has been on the air five years. So has his

STATE'S MONEY BILL NOW NEAR TEST IN HOUSE

Assembly Adds to Senate's Sum Despite Warnings of Administration

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22—(UP)—The new state appropriation bill necessitated by vetoes in the original bill was to come before the House of Representatives today carrying proposals for expenditure of $90,419,013.

Despite insistence of administration leaders that the bill's total should be cut $800,000, the house finance committee recommended passage of the measure with a net addition of $750 to the amount approved by the senate.

As it passed the senate, the bill included appropriations totaling $1,547,302 more than the budget approved by Governor Davey in his vetoes. As a result of the house committee's amendments, the bill is $1,548,052 above the governor's approval total.

Short of Two-thirds

Meanwhile, another deadlock prevented passage of the $10,500,000 Marlow-Kilpatrick relief bill to furnish funds needed urgently by relief authorities in several counties. The house yesterday voted 68 to 35 in favor of accepting senate amendments to the house relief bill but this majority fell short of the two-thirds vote required.

An attempt to reach a compromise on the relief problem was unsuccessful when a heated debate was climaxed by the charge of a Republican house member that J. Freer Bittinger, Democratic speaker, had "broken faith" with the Republican membership.

Rep. Albert J. Mayer, jr., (R) of Cincinnati made the charge of "broken faith" after Rep. Bishop Kilpatrick (D) failed to appear at an unofficial conference of house and senate delegates, intended as a compromise meeting on the relief bill.

"I came here to negotiate and found the majority side would not permit negotiation," Mayer said. "There is no use to confer further until the Democratic leadership of the house agrees to accept the senate's delegates as official conferees."

"I intend to tell Mr. Bittinger that I believe he violated a gentleman's agreement in keeping the third member of the house conference committee, Mr. Kilpatrick, away from the meeting."

Eliminating Salaries The senate amendments would eliminate salaries for members of the state relief commission and provide for distribution of relief funds on a formula basis.

Senate members who attended the relief conference were Senators Harold D. Nichols (D) Cincinnati, and Robert A. Pollock (R) Stark-co. An attempt to hold another conference was to be made.

WALNUT-TWP SCHOOL

The I and II division of Home Economic girls are working on a dinner unit. They are studying the different types of service and the customs and manners that accompany each. The thirty members of the class are divided into four families and each family will serve one of the other families. Dinner invitations, table manners, and appetizing menus are the main parts in the study of "The Perfect Hostess."

The "Charming Girl" is the subject under discussion in the first year Home Economics class. Each girl selected the person she thought most charming and analyzed the factors that gave her charm. Good personal hygiene, attractive appearance, pleasing manners and friendly actions were among the traits selected. The girls in the class are making personal health charts and will check them for a period of two weeks. The correct ways of making introductions and good table manners will be included in the unit of work.

LEGION TO HELP OBTAIN BONUSES

Local Office to Be Set Up; Information Needed

The local post of the American Legion is preparing to assist veterans of the city and county to file their applications for the bonus.

Fred Dauehauer, post commander, announced the opening date and location of an office for handling the applications will be announced as soon as more definite information about the setup is received from the Veterans' Bureau.

Mr. Dauehauer's statement issued Tuesday noon follows: "A staff of volunteer workers from the Legion and Auxiliary will be ready to receive applications as soon as instructions and blanks are received. We have been asked by the Veterans' Bureau to announce that application blanks will not be ready until three weeks after final passage of the bill. It will be useless for any veteran to write to the Veterans' Bureau as applications will be received locally."

Mr. Dauehauer's statement followed numerous calls for information about filing applications.

HOW INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY IS BEING CHANGED

With steam shovels instead of cannon, the international boundary line between the United States and Mexico is being changed near El Paso, Texas. The Rio Grande river is being straightened by engineers and workmen from both countries welding pick and shovel in an effort to remove millions of tons of earth. Meanderings of the upper Rio Grande are being cut from 155 miles to 88 miles, with the exchange of 7,000 acres of land between the two countries. The work will cost $6,000,000, of which the United States will provide 88 per cent and Mexico 12 per cent. Aerial view shows scene.

Marian Martin Pattern

PATTERN 9612

Pert young Junior misses will go into raptures over this newest two-piece fashion. Give daughter the pattern and material for it, and see if she isn't eager to make it up herself. Any Junior who's old enough to wear it, is old enough to make it, for it's really very simple, using the Marian Martin Sew Chart as a guide. There's a captivating blouse with drop-shoulder yoke and sleeves that puff over so gently at the elbow. Buttons down the front mean it goes on in a jiffy. The skirt's a simple one, with kick-pleat to the fore, and she'll find it grand to wear with a variety of sweaters and blouses. Any diagonal weave woolen, a wool-appearing cotton or challis, would be nice. Complete. Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9612 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2½ yard 54 inch fabric and ½ yard 5 inch ribbon.

Be sure to send for OUR NEW PATTERN BOOK and see how easily your Spring wardrobe can reflect the latest fashions! Dozens of smart models for every occasion—some sketched, some photographed. Lovely new fabrics and how to make best use of them. New costume accessories. Smart slendering styles. Clothes that set hints. Patterns for the whole family. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

BRITISH BELIEVE NEW KING WILL NOT TAKE WIFE

Juliana of Holland Considered
Only Possibility; She is
Last of Line

LONDON, Jan. 22—(UP)—The accession of Edward VIII has made it extremely improbable that he ever will marry, informed persons agreed today. The fact is, there is almost no woman in the world eligible.

Even should the king conquer his long aversion to marriage and seek a consort, his position makes it virtually mandatory that he look only in royal circles. Since the World War royal circles have shrunk, and in the last few years most of the few princesses royal have married.

Most eligible of European princesses, in the British public mind, is Princess Juliana of Holland, but Juliana probably would not consider a proposal because she is heir apparent to the Dutch throne and is the last of the House of Orange. Marriage to Edward would leave Holland without an heir.

Despite the obstacles, several London newspapers printed pictures today of the King and Princess Juliana in poses together at the Ascot races last June.

Edward never has avoided women and his name has been coupled romantically with almost every royal princess of the continent. One who always was considered the most eligible, Princess Ingrid of Sweden, eliminated herself last year by marrying the Crown Prince of Norway.

The only other eligibles are the former Grand Duchess Kyra of Russia, and the Princesses Irene, Catherine and Eugenie of Greece. The Grand Duchess Kyra is ruled out for reasons of state and the House of Windsor always has held itself superior to an alliance with the small Balkan houses.

Speculators on the king's probable course recalled a question attributed to him some years back: "If Britain had a virgin queen, why not a bachelor king?" and guessed that he probably still was of the same mind.

and near zero in the extreme southern part of the state.

The local temperature was relatively mild Tuesday night. Dr. H. R. Clarke, local recorder, reported 18 degrees the lowest. Cleveland at noon reported a 13-degree drop in three hours.

Lights On At Noon

The arrival of the blizzard Wednesday morning darkened the skies like night. Electric lights were used in downtown offices. Traffic lights could not be seen 100 feet away. Throughout northern Ohio deep drifts paralyzed automobile travel.

Bus travel out of Sandusky was suspended temporarily.

Port Columbus and employees at Cleveland airport reported the storm endangered schedules of the transcontinental airlines. Port Columbus officials said dispatchers had been ordered to instruct pilots on both eastward and westward planes to avoid the usual stop at the airport. The planes from the west will continue to Pittsburgh and those eastward to Chicago instead of making the customary Columbus stop. A general order to ground all planes was dependent on storm developments later today.

"Explosion Buggy" Treasured
NEWTON, Iowa—A 1907, two-cylinder automobile, manufactured in a Waterloo, Iowa, plant, has been purchased by Fred L. Maytag, II, grandson of the partner in the pioneer auto firm. The "explosion buggy," as the car was called when it first appeared, was purchased from the estate of an owner who had used it until his death three years ago.

ATTACKING "a majority of the United States supreme court" and bitterly denouncing the American Federation of Labor executive council, John L. Lewis, militant president of the United Mine Workers of America, is pictured in Cleveland as he formally launched the drive to organize basic industries along the lines of industrial unionism. More than 6,000 automobile and rubber workers in Akron, O., and Cleveland heard Lewis charge the supreme court majority with "seeking to uphold a tottering and discredited capitalism" and attack craft unionists for "failure" in the mass industries.

LAVAL QUILTS AS FRENCH PREMIER

President Lebrun Accepts; "Strength" is Blamed

PARIS, Jan. 22—(UP)—Premier Pierre Laval, chief advocate of keeping France on the gold standard, presented his resignation today to President Albert Lebrun. The president accepted.

Laval acted after the four Radical-Socialist members of the cabinet, headed by Edouard Herriot, resigned on demand of the party executive.

The real reason for Laval's fall was that the left wing felt he was getting too strong throughout the country, and decided on his removal before the coming parliamentary elections.

Laval, who is influential with the banks, has been the main factor in preventing devaluation in his fight to solve the country's economic difficulties. He has also played a leading part in the international situation on the Geneva stage.

CROMAN POULTRY FARM IS WINNING MANY HONORS

Sterley Croman and his Poultry Farm hatchery, located on the Lancaster pike, are gaining wide publicity.

In the January issue of the "Hatchery Tribune," dealer magazine of the poultry industry, he and his business are given considerable space in the page written by James H. "Buzz" Buswell.

The Croman industry, which now has a 100,000 egg capacity "grew up on the Croman farm," the magazine recounts.

Mr. Croman is given credit in the magazine for the manner in which appeals to the farmers' wives with his advertising program. A picture of little Betty Jane McCoy shown looking into a box of baby chicks is published also in the magazine. This is cited as one of Mr. Croman's ideas for appealing advertising.

The hatchery that was started in 1927 primarily to hatch chickens for the Croman poultry farm has grown to the present capacity equipped with modern electrical equipment. Chicks hatched last year totalled 175,000 while the goal set this year is 250,000.

SNOW, COLDER WEATHER PREDICTED FOR STATE

Snow and colder weather was forecast for Ohio Wednesday and Thursday by the Columbus weather bureau following the slight moderation in temperatures Wednesday morning.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 18 degrees as compared with 4 degrees on Monday and Tuesday. The highest temperature recorded this week was 30 degrees. Dr. H. R. Clarke reported.

WRECKER SERVICE

"ID RATHER HAVE A BUICK BUT"

What do you mean, BUT!

WHAT keeps you from driving a Buick—not next year—but now—today?

Is it the money?

Time payments on a Buick are but two or three dollars a week more than on the lowest-priced cars—less than that, when you figure the "extras" a smaller car usually calls for.

Is it the upkeep?

Buick is a big comfortable car that gives small-car gas mileage, small-car mileage on oil. You'll keep a Buick at least a year longer than you'll keep a lesser car—and probably spend less on it for service and repair in the meantime!

Could it be habit?

Maybe you get used to buying in the low-priced field—you get the idea a big car costs too much to run—you resign yourself to small-car comfort, ability, performance—and plain human nature keeps you from inquiring further!

Maybe a Buick is a bit beyond your reach. But let's not admit it until we've got the actual figures!

We'll gamble our time against yours to show you just what a Buick will cost—to buy—to run—to keep in good condition. We've surprised many a small-car owner with our thrifty figures, thrilled them with a demonstration.

Let us show you our arithmetic—and what a Buick can do out on the road.

It won't cost a penny—and it may make you a lot happier—with a Buick!

IT COSTS LESS NOW TO BUY ON TIME!

The new GMAC 6% TIME PAYMENT PLAN not only makes it easier to figure the cost of buying on time, but saves money that you can use to get a better car. For example, a Buick Special business coupe listed at the factory (safety glass included, standard and special accessory groups extra) at only $765*

THE SEAFARING CAT

RIGHT in the middle of a naval conference at London a sly attempt is being made to deny, or, at any rate, seriously to limit, the freedom of the seas to the oldest international traveler on record. An attack, in fine, has been directed against the ship's cat and this startling campaign, championed by no less an agency than the British ministry of agriculture and fisheries, apparently is gaining momentum. What the tabbies themselves think about it has not definitely been disclosed, although one or two close observers along the London docks are strongly of the impression that there is a distinct feline feeling of amazement at man's ingratitude.

Scientific research may have led to discovery of ways and means to rid ships of rats without the assistance of cats, but this does not seem to be the prime reason for the anti-cat movement on vessels flying the Union Jack. The enemies of puss cloak themselves in the guise of health-protectors, asserting that cats may, and in their opinion frequently do, act as carriers of diseases worse, perhaps, than rats and, therefore, must be sternly regulated, if not banished entirely from the waves.

Around cats, as with pretty much everything connected with the sea, superstitions have clustered these many centuries. If the ship's cat becomes only a memory—and there are nine lives to be reckoned with before this happens—there will be superstitions about cat ghosts on shipboard. It is a far cry from ancient Egypt's deification of the cat to the iconoclastic attitude of modern British officialdom.

Japan's contribution to disarmament at the London naval conference consists of not demanding a navy as large as all the others combined.

A Georgia justice is on sound ground, it seems, when he rules that naging is not a sufficient cause for divorce. In fact, it's just one of the hazards of a great adventure.

A man is as old as he feels when he first wakes up in the morning.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Nothing that Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate munitions investigating committee, could say personally would be as damaging as the actual evidence introduced so far. The general public does not get a glance at that evidence. It is too voluminous for the majority of newspapers to publish. Even excerpts for the daily news dispatches would take up too much space. We shall give a few brief excerpts.

HOUSE OF WILSON

First of all, there is this in a letter, dated May 14, 1916, from Colonel Edward M. House to President Woodrow Wilson: "One thing that works against you is the alienated Americans living in both Paris and London. By their wealth and position they have the ears of the members of the governments Whitney Warren in Paris is a type and I have been told is very close to Briand. Bacon is another. "The members of the firm of Morgan & Co. are close to both governments (British and French) and you may be sure there is nothing your administration does but what is condemned. "They try to create the feeling and never more so than now, that if the Republicans were in, it would be a triumph for the Allies and that if the war continues until after November things will be different."

MORGAN OPPOSES WILSON

Then, let us skip to Dec. 31, 1916. President Wilson had put

FRENCH, BRITISH TO INTERVENE WITH NEW PEACE PLAN TO RESCUE ITALY

WASHINGTON — Confidential reports received by the State Department from Italy indicate a much more desperate condition than has leaked out through censored press dispatches.

Not only have Italian troops in East Africa been defeated, but there has been increasing restlessness at home. Strikes have taken place in several Italian munitions plants. There has been disaffection among the Alpine troops, pride of the Italian Army, with the result that some of them are being transferred to the Abyssinian front.

Finally, an underground Communist organization is reported to be gaining ground throughout Italy.

All of these situations have contributed to a secret Franco-British plan to intervene with a new peace plan to save Italy.

While they dislike and distrust Mussolini, the French and British cannot afford to have him crack up. This especially is the view of the French, Mussolini, as a check-mate against Hitler's Austrian ambitions, is worth far more to the French than any altruism in Abyssinia.

The new peace plan will not go as far as the Hoare-Laval agreement. Also the French and British, this time, will try first to get the official stamp of the League. It will be put forward as a League plan.

What the British frankly fear is that Mussolini, facing defeat in East Africa, will try to save face by persuading his people that they are being attacked by Europe, and become the mad dog of the Mediterranean. This would precipitate general war.

NEW AAA

Now that the plan of revamping the AAA is completed, Henry Wallace is almost of the opinion that the overhauling may have done some good after all.

Reason is that when Wallace first became Secretary of Agriculture, one thing he wanted to accomplish was an all-embracing system of soil conservation, whereby the Government could help rebuild the land on every man's farm.

However, even in the days of the Brain Trust, this was considered too idealistic and visionary. It was marked down as something to aim at within the next few years.

But now, under the revamped AAA, this goal virtually has been attained. Its provision whereby a farmer sets aside a certain acreage each year also gives the Government the right to tell him how it shall be planted—in legumes, grass, etc., according to chemical analysis of the soil.

This is virtually what Wallace originally wanted.

out feelers for peace. His secretary of state, Robert Lansing, and the American ambassador in London, Walter Hines Page, had been steadily trending the United States toward participation in the war with the Allies, but President Wilson, together with the Pope in Rome, evidently remained hopeful that the Teutonic nations would agree to a peace—a peace with "victory" to none.

That periled Anglo-French loans. President Wilson made an announcement.

J. P. Morgan immediately cabled his partner in London, E. C. Grenfell, and here is the cablegram: "Distressed and mortified beyond measure by the president's pronouncement of this morning, which seems to indicate that he has no appreciation of the difference between the conduct of the Allies and of the Central Powers."

"It seems that, realizing that he had made a mistake in putting it out, he tried to correct it by Lansing's statement, which has rather made matters worse. Do not forget, however, in talking about it, that what the president says does not change the feeling of the country, which I still believe is more than 50 per cent pro-ally and I think will continue so."

TREND CONTINUES

Morgan won out. Intense pro-ally propaganda swept the United States. The House of Morgan succeeded in floating the third United Kingdom loan in the United States.

The United States had voted to retain the Wilson administration.

MURDER UPSTAIRS
By ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 51

I HAD BEEN questioning Miss Cambridge on the way home from Mr. Darien's funeral concerning that eventful night. I was trying to check up on my own deductions.

She had recalled one noise I had forgotten—a noise made by me, when I bumped into a chair as I came into the dining room.

"That's what I mean," I told Miss Cambridge, "when I asked if you had heard a noise. I had forgotten that until now. I did bump into a chair, that one just inside the door, under the light button."

And I remember I muttered some thing to myself. It wasn't until I was in the pantry that I heard you in the kitchen. You say you were there 10 minutes before I came in?"

"More or less," said the school teacher. "I can't be sure. I looked at my watch before I started down and it was 15 minutes to 1. It couldn't have taken me more than two minutes to get downstairs. You may be sure that if I had heard Mr. Withers under your window, I would have saved you a trip downstairs, and opened the door for him. You know that."

I nodded. "You didn't hear anyone on the back stairs while you were in the kitchen preparing your milk? Before I came in?"

"I didn't. The house was very quiet. I stressed that to Lieutenant Larrabee."

"No one walked above you?" "In Mrs. Starmont's room?"

Mrs. Starmont's room was above the kitchen. With its two occupants, for Grace had admitted to me she spent the night on Mrs. Starmont's chaise-lounge, Miss Cambridge might have heard something.

"Nothing. The rugs are very heavy, and the floors are thick. I didn't hear anything from above."

"No water running in the house?" Sometimes a faucet turned on in the dead of the night in my house seems very loud.

She shook her head. "I've been over this with Lieutenant Larrabee."

I sighed. "You said you were restless before you finally came downstairs for some hot milk. Did you hear anything while you were in bed in your room?"

"I've been over that, too, and I've told Lieutenant Larrabee what I know. Janet left her room for half an hour and then came back at 11:30. I was upstairs at 10:30, you know, my usual hour. I can always tell when her door opens. She walked past my room, and down the stairs. I'm sure of that. I don't know where she went."

I did. She went down to Andrew Darien's room.

"When she came back I heard something drop and break in her room. It sounded like glass."

I knew that, too. In her nervous confusion when she had returned from her interview with Mr. Darien, he glass of water Janet was taking fell from her hands into the porcelain bowl.

"You aren't turning detective, are you, Mrs. Penny?" Miss Cambridge asked, curiously.

I decided to be frank. "I've got to help Lucy some way. That's why I'm asking these questions. I'm afraid unless I do—"

I paused, hardly knowing how to continue. I didn't want Miss Cambridge to suspect what Dr. Rudemar had told me, but I did want her to know that Lucy was in danger—of arrest.

"Lieutenant Larrabee suspects her?"

"I think so," he didn't yet, but he would as soon as he heard what Dr. Rudemar had to say. I had only until the next day to help her.

If I could get Marcella Cambridge interested in trying to help me— "How do you know?"

"I know. He's been asking me questions about her—"

He hadn't especially, but I didn't want to give a hint of Dr. Rudemar. I wanted her to feel Lucy's danger without knowing all the details.

The cab stopped and we hurried into the house. Miss Cambridge went up to her room, and I went to the kitchen where Grace had almost finished preparations for dinner.

She was looking extraordinarily pleased.

"It's about Mr. Hemingway," she whispered as she drew near me. "I think he's going to be arrested. Sergeant Ross just told me that Lieutenant Larrabee has him dead or rights. He seems pretty well pleased about it. Mr. Hemingway has been in the sitting room with Lieutenant Larrabee ever since you left. He's still there."

Fifteen minutes later Ross brought word from Larrabee that he wished to see me.

There was no sign of Martin Hemingway when I went into the sitting room. Kirk Larrabee was alone, scribbling in his notebook. He didn't look up when I entered, so I sat down. I hoped he wouldn't keep me too long because it was necessary that I get back into the kitchen as soon as I could. Grace had been splendid about taking hold, but I couldn't ask too much of her.

"Well?" Larrabee asked, after what seemed to be half an hour, although in reality it wasn't more than a few minutes.

"How was the funeral?" "Oh, the funeral." Although it had been only an hour and a half since the funeral, I had completely forgotten about it until his question.

"All right." "You didn't see the corpse, but Miss Cambridge did, eh?" I must have looked puzzled for he laughed.

"If you want to know about the funeral, Lieutenant Larrabee," I said, "you have only to ask your two men who attended."

"I have, Mrs. Penny, but I want to get your reaction to it. Does Miss Cambridge always look into caskets?" "Really, I've never been to a funeral with her before, but she probably does."

"Normal, then?" he persisted. When I didn't answer, he continued: "I take it you don't like funerals. Also that you used the occasion as an excuse to call Dr. Rudemar. Spentid co-operation, if I may say so, Mrs. Penny."

The man had the most uncanny way of scenting the truth. I flushed, and he knew he was right. "If you don't need me any more, I really must go back to the kitchen—"

"Unfortunately, I do need you, Mrs. Penny, so if you will be good enough to stay—"

He picked up Della's letter to her mother. "In the face of your call to Dr. Rudemar, I would much rather not ask your advice about this letter, but I must. You talked with Mrs. Randall, didn't she?"

"She wouldn't have given it to me if she hadn't."

"Had she seen Della to talk to since her daughter came her to work?"

"No, she hadn't. They corresponded twice a week."

"So she knows nothing of Della's likes and dislikes? Except through her letters?"

"Exactly." We were at odds once more. I hoped it wouldn't be for long because I wanted his friendship.

"Did you speak to Miss Cambridge about this letter?" "I did not."

"What do you think about it?" "I? The same thing that you think about it."

"And what do I think about it?" "You probably think it unimportant as I do. After all, Della might have been startled when she found Marcella Cambridge in her room, but after the gift of the shoes—"

He took the rest of the sentence out of my mouth.

"Della forgot the incident in her gratefulness for Miss Cambridge's generosity. Which means to me that Della would have admitted Miss Cambridge to her room just the same. So the letter doesn't give us any new light as it should. Too bad, Mrs. Penny. You may go now."

Not a word about Mr. Hemingway and why he had been questioned so long. By calling Dr. Rudemar I had forfeited his confidence. I was sorry in a way, and glad in another, for I didn't want to stay in that room any longer with Kirk Larrabee trying to read my thoughts.

What was on my mind now was my private and individual business. I was sure I was right or wrong. I kept telling myself I must be wrong. All the time I was in the kitchen helping Grace, I kept repeating to myself that I was wrong. I must be. It was too horribly, morbidly impossible. I broke three plates in five minutes. Grace blamed the breakage on my fatigue, but I blamed it on something else.

The groove my thoughts were falling in the case I was building up in my mind against one of my own people. (TO BE CONTINUED)

THEATRES

AT THE CLIPTONA

The recent trend toward broadening the audience appeal of spine-tingling action melodramas through the use of comedy is advanced by "Another Face," which has Wallace Ford, Brian Donley and Phyllis Brooks in principal roles.

Time was when such screen fare tended to be heavy and unrelievedly thrilling, with appeal limited rather closely to the strong nerved. "Another Face" and similar films have banished the old type completely.

Its plot depends upon the results of a vain, yet sinister killer crashing the films after having his face remodeled by a plastic surgeon. Suspense is kept at high tension when his identity becomes known, and an upset in police plans turns him loose, heavily armed, inside a studio.

On the same program will be seen Harres Bell Wrights, thrilling story that gripped millions.

DIET AND HEALTH

Showing How Body Uses Food as Fuel for Energy

By LOGAN CLENEDENING, M. D.
WE HAVE said that the largest part of our food intake is used, not for replacing the broken-down tissues of the body, but for energy.

A muscle, in contracting, does not destroy any perceptible part of its substance (in fact, as we know from experience, muscles increase in size from use). But it does use up fuel. Like any other machine, it depends upon the burning, or oxidation, of fuel to work. This fuel may come from one or all of several elements in the food.

Most of it comes from the burning of sugars and starches, and for that reason these substances must form the largest part of any diet—twice all the rest by weight. Fats are also used for energy, but not so readily as starches and sugars (carbohydrates). Protein is also used as a fuel, but probably only after it has been converted into carbohydrate. Most of us eat two or three times as much protein as the body needs, and this excess is utilized partly for energy.

There is hardly anything in all medical science that has been so completely worked out mathematically as this question of energy utilization of foods. The whole vocabulary of calories is built around this science.

Heat Common Energy

The commonest form of energy in the world is heat, and heat, in this sense, depends upon the union of oxygen with some other substance. This process is called "oxidation," which is no different than the com-

Husbands Guests at Annual D. A. R. Dinner

Delegates Elected; Social Calendar
Major H. M. Ervin Is Speaker

Pickaway Plains chapter Daughters of the American Revolution enjoyed a delightful evening Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Briggs, N. Scioto-st., when members entertained their husbands and friends at their annual covered-dish dinner at 6 o'clock.

A short business meeting was held after the dinner at which time delegates and alternates were elected to the state meeting of the D. A. R. in Springfield, March 16 through the 19.

Mrs. George Hunsicker, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, Mrs. Paul Cromley, Mrs. William Mack were named delegates and alternates are Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Mrs. Hervey Sweyer, and Miss Alice Ada May. Delegates elected to the national D. A. R. meeting in Washington in April are Mrs. George Hunsicker and Mrs. Briggs. Mrs. Harry Heffner and Mrs. Harp Van Riper are alternates.

After the business the guest speaker, Major H. M. Ervin of the medical corp of the United States army, gave a wonderfully instructive and entertaining talk. His topic was "Medical Service in Revolutionary Times." He vividly contrasted the lack of doctors, medicine, equipment, hospitals and attention of any kind given to the wounded and sick soldiers during their fight for freedom, to the tremendous medical department of the present modern army where there are twelve men out of every 100 enlisted men in the medical department, safe guarding in every way the health of the soldiers and uplifting the morale of the family at home.

The music of the evening was a group of songs by Mrs. Paul Cromley with Mrs. Martin Cromley at the piano. Her numbers were "Still as the Night," "Lassie of Mine," and "Big Brown Bear." Mrs. Martin Cromley contributed two piano solos, "Poem" by Rafee and "Romance" by LaForge.

175 at Celebration

One hundred and seventy-five called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ashbrook in Fairfield-co., near Amanda, Tuesday afternoon and evening when they held open house in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The affair was a delightful informal occasion and one long to be remembered by those attending. The couple received many gifts, greetings and telegrams from numerous friends that could not be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashbrook are known in this county having lived at their present home since their marriage fifty years ago and being residents of the Amanda vicinity their entire lives.

They are parents of Mrs. Leslie May, E. Franklin-st. Mrs. Ashbrook is 73 years of age and Mr. Ashbrook 77 and both are enjoying good health.

The table where refreshments were served was centered with yellow roses and lighted with gold candles. Mrs. Callie Moore of Los Angeles, Calif., a sister of Mrs. Ashbrook, poured tea.

The honored couple's son and daughters, Price Ashbrook of Chillicothe, Mrs. May and Mrs. Frank C. Blue of Columbus acted as hosts.

Mrs. Reger Entertains

Mrs. Paul Miller was a substituting guest when Mrs. Elmer Reger, S. Court-st., entertained the members of her two table bridge club at her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Melvin Yates was winner of prize for high score in contract. Lunch was served at the small tables.

Mrs. Yates invited the club to meet at her home on E. Franklin-st. next week.

Miss Phillips Hostess

Miss Mary Ellen Phillips, Pinckney-st., entertained with a bridge party Tuesday evening at the American Hotel Coffee shop. Guests were members of her club and Mrs. Jay Clark.

Two tables of cards were in play and prizes went to Miss Helen Steele and Miss Eleanor Ryan for high scores. Refreshments were served after the game.

Mrs. Mac Mader, E. Main-st., will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

Mrs. Kinsey Honored

Mrs. I. W. Kinsey, E. Main-st., was honored Tuesday evening when members of her bridge club arranged a dinner party at her home in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The affair was a pleasant surprise for Mrs. Kinsey.

Guild Meeting

The January meeting of the Otterbein guild of the United Brethren church was enjoyed Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Jane Huffer, N. Pickaway-st.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood opened the meeting with prayer and after a short business session the program leader, Miss Jessie Cummings, was in charge.

Challenge by the leader was followed by group singing of "We've a Story to Tell." The group was led through Africa on an imaginary trip. Miss Mary Elizabeth Groce told about Freetown; Miss Cummings about Albert academy; Miss Louise Goldsberry about Rotifunk; the leader about the school for girls, and Miss Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick about "Our School at Tiana."

Prayer by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick concluded the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Misses Alice and Jane Huffer.

Grange to Give Play

The Scioto grange will present the play "Two Days to Marry" at the Scioto school auditorium Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, at 8:15 o'clock.

Seven members of the grange will portray the characters and the production is being directed by Mrs. Hazel West.

It is a comedy drama in three acts and promises to furnish many laughs for the audience. Characters will be played by C. V. Neal as Simon P. Chase, as black as his race, Bill Rush as James J. Dare, a wifeless heir; Otis Williams as Ruford B. Sawyer, a timid lawyer; Emma Hudson as Emily Jane Pink, blacker than ink; Jesse Hill as Sadie L. Boise, a widow by choice; Blanche Rush as Imogene McShane, a sweet young thing, and Virgil Hill as Walter M. Blair, a millionaire.

The story centers around the millionaire, who advertizes for a wife. This causes quite a mix-up and it is interesting to see how he gets out of this predicament.

Berry, and a playlet, "Unfortunate Mr. Jones," presented by Hoyt Timmons and Edna Timmons.

Lamb Stew with Vegetables
Celery Cabbage with French Dressing

Chocolate Layer Cake
Coffee or Tea

This recipe for lamb stew furnishes one of the popular and nutritious one-dish meals that are easily prepared and comparatively inexpensive.

Today's Recipes

Lamb Stew—Two pounds lamb, one quart potato cubes, one pint quartered carrots, one pint small, peeled onions, one cup tomatoes, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons chopped parsley. Cut meat into small pieces and roll in flour to which salt and pepper have been added. Brown in hot fat. Cover with boiling water and stew slowly for one and one-half hours. Add onions, carrots, potatoes, seasonings and tomatoes, and cook until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Add dumplings, cover closely and cook ten minutes without raising cover. Remove stew to hot platter, surround with dumplings, sprinkle with parsley.

Dumplings—One cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cold water or milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add enough liquid to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls into hot stew and steam, covered, for ten minutes. There must be plenty of gravy to cook dumplings successfully.

Chocolate Layer Cake—One-half cup shortening, one and one-fourth cups sugar, three eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, two and one-fourth cups pastry flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup milk. This recipe makes one large loaf or three nine-inch layers.

Chocolate Filling and Icing—Four squares unsweetened chocolate, two tablespoons butter, one-half cup milk, three tablespoons cornstarch, three and one-half cups confectioner's sugar, two egg yolks, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla extract, four tablespoons cream. Melt chocolate and butter together in top of double boiler. Mix cornstarch with milk. Add slowly to melted chocolate, stirring until thick and smooth. Add salt to egg yolks; add to first mixture. Continue cooking while beating until smooth. Add flavoring and cool. Use half this mixture to spread thickly between layers of the cake. Add to other half remaining two cups sugar and cream slowly, beating until smooth. Spread on top and sides of cake.

TIGERS TROUNCE BOBCATS, 32-18; YOUTHS INJURED

Andrews and Styers Hit Hoop in Lop-Sided Game; Melson Loses Tooth

Not even a collision, which threatened to remove two athletes from the game, could stop the Tigers Tuesday evening so they improved their standing in the Central Buckeye league by defeating Grandview, 32-18. The Bobcats never had a chance although they started well.

Dick Melson and Don Henry came together with a crash in the early moments of the third period while both were chasing a loose ball. A tooth flew from the tall center's mouth, and blood streamed from both cagers. Time was taken to treat both the youths. Henry remained in the game. Melson went to the shower room and after a little time to recover from the jar went back into the ball game.

Andrews, Styers Hot

Cecil Andrews and Chuck Styers had their batting eyes working overtime collecting 20 points, the former 11, the latter nine.

The Tiger defense was superlative from start to finish with the Grandview boys getting few open shots and being hurried on all of those. Forrest, Grandview's chief threat, broke loose for two goals in the early part of the first period, but he was safely muzzled after that, and Grandview had to be content with shooting from back of the foul circle. Only six action buckets were scored by Jim Scott's boys while the Tigers caged 14.

All the Red and Black team did well with Don Henry doing his best caging of the year. Andrews, too, showed improved form and Styers hit as he has been expected. Jenkins and Melson did nobly on the defense, and both added needed points. The work of Friley, Plum and Griffith was also pleasing.

Grandview had no serious threats except Forrest. The first half ended 17-8 in favor of the Tigers.

In the reserve tilt the Bobcats were victorious, 12-5.

Tom Morgan of Ohio university capably handled the whistle.

About THIS and THAT In Many Sports

Marysville to Invade

Marysville is the Red and Black foe Friday evening on the local court—Jerry Kingsmore's boys were unbeaten until last night when Delaware, victor over the Tigers, 12-5, administered a 30-24 victory to gain undisputed possession of first place. In the other CBL game Tuesday Westerville took Bexley, 26-19. The local crew still has a chance to gain a tie for the league leadership by beating Marysville since Delaware must take on Westerville Friday, and may lose—Had John Jenkins been able to play against Delaware, the Tigers would have had a clean slate in the league right now ***

Cheerleading Helps

A few roses, no more than that, to the Tiger cheerleaders, the student body and the band for their work Tuesday evening—It looks as though a little spurring were needed to awaken the school forces to their possibilities. The cheering, the enthusiasm and the pep shown Tuesday night was something to behold after being forced to listen to another school do all the cheering for the last couple of games—A pep rally at the school, Tuesday, in which the "riot" act was read, helped stir up the spirit  Remember, there is another game Friday evening ***

Yanks Mean Business

The New York Yankees are out for bear this year in the American league—They offered Cleveland $241,000 for outfielders Vosmik and Averill, and it was turned down—That's a lot of pickles, but so are Vosmik and Averill ***

Sports Sprinklings

The referee for Friday night's CBL game against Marysville will be Bob Sher, our old pal  George "Tubby" Vierebome witnessed the game Tuesday evening; 'twas good to see him able to be back among his old friends  Basketball fans will trek Ashville-ward tonight to see the gladiators of that school meet Pickaway  The Muhlenberg-Salt Creek game has been moved up to Thursday evening  The county coaches had their regular meeting Tuesday evening and adjourned early to view the Tiger-Bobcat game  From Al Kauber, Ashville coach: "I'm glad we weren't playing Circleville tonight"—Kauber's boys beat the Tigers with Chuck Styers ill and in the stands; last night he caged nine points which would have been plenty to beat the up-county team of fine ball players ***

Haarlow's Court Record Rivals Berwanger's Mark

Athlete Always High Scorer But Has Never Played on Title Team; Discusses His Favorite Shots

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Bill Haarlow, captain and amazing shotmaker of the Chicago basketball team, stepped lightly onto the playing floor in the Maroon fieldhouse, eager to begin another routine practice session.

His straight black hair contrasted sharply to the clean white sweatshirt which covered the upper half of his lean body.

He dipped his hands into a burlap bag, pulled out a basketball and fondled it almost with reverence.

None of the other players had appeared, so while they finished dressing Haarlow sat on a table along the sidelines and talked frankly about his favorite sport.

His basketball record has been as remarkable as the football record compiled by that other astonishing Chicago senior, Jay Berwanger.

As a sophomore, Haarlow scored 109 points in Big Ten competition. Last year he led the conference with 156 points, compiling 54 field goals and 51 free throws. He is leading the league in the current race with 56 points, scored in four games.

Haarlow played four years on the Bowen high team, in Chicago, and this is his third year at the midway, but in all that time he never has competed on a championship outfit.

The most points he ever scored in one game was 52. That happened one time in high school when he got 24 baskets and four free throws. His record in a single Big Ten game is 22, against Northwestern when he was a sophomore.

Haarlow revealed that his favorite shot, and the easiest one for him to make, is a one handed heave inside the free throw line.

"I thought the new three second rule would hinder me this year," he explained, "because I had been used to short shots from the circle. As a matter of fact, I only made three baskets in high school from outside the free throw line."

"But I found the rule didn't make much difference. I've been getting longer shots, taking time to get set and then using both hands. If a guard is there to prevent the shot, I like to drive in and try for the foul."

CUNNINGHAM PREPARES TO DEFEND HIS TITLES

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, holder of the world's mile record of 4:06.7, will defend his thrice-won laurels in the Wanamaker mile, feature of the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden Feb. 1.

His rivals will be Gene Venzke, former holder of the indoor mile record of 4:10; Donald Lash of Indiana, western conference mile champion; Archie San Romani, national collegiate A. A. champion and one other entry to be named later.

Cunningham won the Wanamaker mile in 1933 in 4:13, in 1934 in 4:11.2 and in 1935 in 4:11.

INDIANA PLANS CAGE TOURNEY FOR 800 TEAMS

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Popularity of basketball among high schools in Indiana—long a stronghold of the sport—has caused adoption of a new system for the 1936 state tournament.

With an entry of approximately 800 teams expected this year, the Indiana High School Athletic Association, sponsor of the tournament, has added a fourth week end of play to the championship event.

Previously, the championship was decided in three week ends of play, with 16 finalists meeting here at Butler fieldhouse in grueling two-day competition in the final round.

Sixty-four sectionals are scheduled March 5-6-7, with from eight to 16 teams playing at each of the tournaments. The meets will reduce the huge starting field to 64 teams.

Sixteen regional tournaments, with four teams each, will be played March 14. Formerly, winners in these tournaments went directly to the state finals.

This year the survivors will play in four semi-final tournaments to determine the teams to compete in the championship event March 28.

NEGRO SCHOOL ADMITTED TO SPORT ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Paul Laurence Dunbar high school of Dayton was to be admitted to the Ohio High School Athletic Association today.

The Dayton school is for Negro students exclusively and will be the only institution of its kind holding membership in the state association.

CAUGHT NAPPING

THE FOLLOWING deal appeared at one of the regular Thursday duplicate games at the Knickerbocker Whist club, New York, and about half the players sitting North allowed themselves to be trapped into having to give a game at spades to West. The incident simply illustrates how players, thinking that game is lost, allow themselves to drift into a condition of mental apathy that really causes the game to be lost.

At several tables bidding went: West, 1-Spade; East, 3-Spades; West, 4-Spades, ending the auction.

The popular opening lead was the 3 of clubs. Dummy's Ace won the trick. The J of spades lost to the K. Another club was led and lost to declarer's K. A second round of trumps captured all outstanding spades. A low diamond was led from declarer's hand. Some North players at once put up their Ace. Others did so on the second round of diamonds, after declarer had re-entered his hand by means of a trump and again led diamonds through North. In either event North won a single diamond trick and East won two tricks in the suit. The final lead always was left in dummy, and a heart was led. At two tables, which we will designate as A and B, the Ace of hearts won the eighth trick. North held the K-5 of hearts, only. At table A, North played low when the Ace won, then he took the second heart trick with his K.

Mr. A North was in a predicament. He held only the J of diamonds and the 9-8-6 of clubs. Neither declarer nor dummy held either a diamond or a club. When North led a minor suit card dummy ruffed and declarer discarded his last heart, just going game through North's apathy. At table B, the Ace of hearts went on the eighth trick, but North seeing that he could not save game if he won the next trick, underplayed his K of hearts. As a result declarer had to lose the ninth and tenth tricks to South's two top hearts, and went down a trick.

Before Monday see if the above problem hand can be solved. Spades are trumps. North is to lead and take all six tricks against the best defense of East and West.

WEATHER INTERFERES WITH TOWNSHIP INSTITUTES

THREE SPEAKERS ARE DELAYED BY BLOCKED ROADS

Only 13 Present as Deer-creek Program Opens; Others Elect Officers

Highways blocked by snow-drifts caused lengthy delays in opening institutes at Williamsport and Derby, Wednesday morning.

Mrs. C. R. Milnor, Pickerington, state speaker, and George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, scheduled to speak at the morning session in Williamsport, were unable to reach the Deer-creek-twp village until shortly before noon.

Williamsport residents reported only about 12 persons present for the institute opening. Students of the high school and eighth grade were dismissed to attend the session. The school closed at 1 p. m. for students to return to their homes before the condition of the roads became worse.

Small Group Present

Dr. B. O. Skinner, Columbus, former state director of education, state speaker for the Derby institute Wednesday morning, had not reached the school at noon. Only a small group was present for the program.

If the snowstorm continues institute officers said they did not know what arrangements would be made for the programs on Thursday.

Institutes at Five Points and Atlanta closed Tuesday evening with presentations of home talent plays. The entertainment at Atlanta was presented by the Parent-Teacher association and Monroe alumni presented a minstrel. Both institutes reported large attendance.

Officers elected at Five Points during the afternoon session are: L. R. McCoy, president; H. S. Hatfield, vice president, and Fred Call, secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Ruth Ater was named hostess and members of the executive committee are Carl Hosler, George Pemberton and Ruby Smith.

The newly elected Perry-twp institute officers are: Joseph Owens, president; Wendell Evans, vice president, and Wiley Campbell, Jr., secretary and treasurer.

The Scioto Valley Institute at Ashville and the Tarlton Institute open Friday morning for two-day sessions and institutes in Commercial Point and Saltcreek-twp will be held Jan. 27 and 28.

Officers of the Saltcreek-twp event are: Clayton Bowsher, president; Kelly Hinton, vice president; E. C. Shupe, secretary; E. H. Fetherolf, treasurer, and Mary Fraunfelner, hostess. Members of the executive committee are Mary Porter, Thomas Hockman, Lena Crawford and Erving Beougher. The state speakers will be Mr. Skinner and Mrs. Milnor.

V. OF F. W. NOTICE

The regular business and social meeting of Henry Page Polson Jr. Post No. 3331 will be held Thursday in Memorial Hall. All members are requested to attend and be there promptly at 8 p. m. All officers are to report promptly at 7 p. m. to go through the ritual before the regular meeting is opened.

This meeting will be of interest to every veteran, as some important subjects are to be discussed, especially regarding the Bonus.

Any veteran eligible to the "Gold Chevron Order" who is interested, and would like to join, should get in touch with Commander Norris, or any member of the post.

The Ladies' auxiliary of the post will meet Friday, in Memorial Hall at 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to attend.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks lunk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse any other else. 25c.

THROUGH CHEERS AS NEW RULER GREET SUBJECTS FROM PALACE DURING MEDIEVAL CEREMONIES

fanfare that echoed over the suddenly hushed crowd.

Wollaston held aloft a parchment and from it read the proclamation which declared the "high and mighty Prince Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David" to have inherited solely and rightfully, the rule of his father.

Edward VIII looked on from a window of the palace, unobserved by the crowd. As Wollaston read, officers of arms were reading it in Cardiff, Wales, and Edinburgh, Scotland, and Belfast Ireland. Proclamation ceremonies were held at capitals of countries, of islands, of settlements in remote spots throughout the world.

Guns boomed from fortresses all the way from England to Hong Kong and from ships at sea.

Was Public Necessity

It was a ceremony, an anachronism now, that a few centuries ago was a public necessity, to advise the people that a king was dead but that their crown authority went on under a new one.

The streets were covered with sand. Hundreds of police mingled with the soldiers, to keep back the crowds.

Steaming field kitchens fed the soldiers from outside of London before they took their posts.

The crowds were reverent. Few people, even the noisy newsboys, spoke above a whisper. Workers had difficulty in getting to their jobs because 24 main traffic arteries were closed.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 were massed about Friary court when the proclamation ceremony was conducted first.

The crowd took off their hats and Clarenceau King of arms read the proclamation, for the last time. As he finished the Irish guards band started "God Save the King." People could contain their emotion no more and many burst into tears.

Some blocks away, another band started the national anthem, and from still farther away thousands of voices were heard singing it. There was sudden silence. An officer shouted and a thousand rifle butts thudded together to the ground from the present arms of the coldstream.

The Lord mayor in full regalia, accompanied by wigged, black robed law lords, mounted the steps from his carriage and, waving his cocked hat, led the crowd in three cheers that thundered through the city.

The ritual necessary to the suggestion of a new monarch was over. There need be none until the coronation a year or so hence. King George V had been dead 35 hours as the ceremony ended. The new king was already at Buckingham palace at his work.

HOME MOVED IN PIECES
NEWELL, Iowa.—A residence, purchased by Dr. F. C. Foley, was cut into two sections and hauled five miles overland to a new location. The division was made necessary because the sections were moved across several bridges along the route.

Most families use but 12 or 15 different kinds of vegetables, but the large markets in our cities have for sale about 50 varieties throughout the year.

NEW VOLUNTARY A. A. A. IS READY FOR HOUSE VOTE

one or more agricultural commodities designated by the secretary which equals that percentage of the normal national production of such commodities required for domestic consumption.

The soil erosion bill would be amended to include a provision asserting that "depletion of the soil and the improper use of soil resources of the nation impede the orderly flow of agricultural commodities in the channels of trade, endanger the assurance of an adequate supply of such commodities at a fair price to producers and consumers, endanger the reestablishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power, and otherwise adversely affect the national welfare."

Jones Bankhead For It

Chairman Marvin Jones, D., Tex., of the house agriculture committee, made public the house text of the administration's substitute program to run for two years.

Sen. John H. Bankhead, D., Ala., made public the senate bill. To carry out the farm program the bill specifies that it shall be the policy to broaden the purposes of the 1935 erosion act to include:

1. Preservation and improvement of soil fertility.
 2. Promotion of the economic use of land.
 3. Diminution of exportation and unprofitable use of natural soil resources.
 4. Provision for and maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities adequate to meet domestic and foreign consumer requirements at prices fair to both producers and consumers.
 5. Reestablishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power.
- The secretary of agriculture is empowered to exercise whatever powers "he finds most conducive to the accomplishment of the purposes" outlined by the bill. The secretary also would be empowered to take not only steps to control soil erosion but also any "preventive measures needed" to carry out the program.

The bill provides that its execution shall be carried out by the present set-up of the agriculture adjustment administration.

The secretary of agriculture would be authorized to utilize the AAA for carrying out authorized provisions of the act. Immediately after making known the text of the bill, Jones called his committee into executive session to go over typographical errors, if any, in the bill's text, so that it may be formally introduced at noon.

The act applies to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

The measure will now be known officially as the "soil conservation and domestic allotment act" instead of the soil erosion act of 1935.

"I put TERRAPLANE first because I put Safety First"

"Go ahead, kids . . . that car's got BRAKES!"

No one needs to be reminded that safe driving in winter, more than at any other season, calls for a car that is safe.

Then why not start this new year with the "safest car on today's highways?" Terraplane—with more new and important safety features than any other low priced automobile ever had!

Bring Safety up to Date!

For safer riding, safer steering, safer stopping, Terraplane brings you Radial Safety Control (patent applied for). Here is a revolutionary principle of front axle and spring design which new owners from coast to coast are hailing as the greatest safety feature in many years.

None but the best brakes are good enough. And no other low priced car but Terraplane meets that demand with Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for). Latest and best hydraulics with a separate safety braking system that takes hold automatically if ever needed.

For added safety on the highway—greater steadiness on curves—two more

1936 improvements: Tru-Line Steering and the Rhythmic Ride.

Safer Bodies! Safer Chassis!

The world's first safety engineered chassis is now combined with America's first bodies all of steel, and seamless roof of solid steel.

There is extra safety, too, in Terraplane's record-breaking performance, to take you out of traffic "tight spots." And in the Electric Hand, an optional extra, for easier gear shifting and safer driving.

Drive safely in 1936—in a car that you know to be safe. Drive a new Terraplane.

Artillery Throughout Empire Booms Salute to King Edward VIII in Same Manner As Used
Since Early Days of British History

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Edward VIII was proclaimed to the people of his kingdom and of his empire today, "By the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas, king, defender of the faith, emperor of India."

The boyish-appearing monarch watched from a window of St. James's palace long his home, while England was told, by a mediocrally garbed officer of arms who read from a parchment scroll, that he was king.

He stepped out on to a balcony, pale and thoughtful while a great crowd cheered him, went back into the palace and within a few minutes was at Buckingham palace a few hundred yards away, briskly, in morning dress, talking business with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin while a procession as of ancient times moved on through the city to proclaim him king.

LONG'S FORCES WIN, CELEBRATE

Precincts Count Enough Votes
to Show Lead

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Huey P. Long's political machine was in absolute control of Louisiana for four more days today on the basis of incomplete returns from yesterday's Democratic primary. They indicated a landslide victory for the machine's candidates.

Returns came in very slowly from the Long-controlled election boards throughout the state, and charges of wholesale fraud had been made even before the precincts closed. Long officials here counted only enough to show their candidates leading, before stopping for the night.

The count of the vote of 308 precincts of the state's 1,049, including 250 in New Orleans, gave Appellate Judge Richard W. Leche, Long candidate for governor, 107,459 against 40,558 for Congressman Cleveland Dear, the anti-Long candidate. The Long counts didn't bother to tabulate the votes for other offices, but it was indicated that the margin of other Long men was approximately the same.

Soon after midnight, the Long politicians and workers went to a hotel for a celebration which after a few hours was becoming noisy and mildly incoherent. The count of ballots will continue today.

CITY WORKERS FROM RURAL AREAS WORRY

City workers who live in rural districts were puzzled Wednesday afternoon to know if they would reach their homes after work.

Many reported crossing snow-drifts Wednesday morning, but the blizzard had not started at that time. Although county and state employees were busy on their branches of the county highway chain information could not be obtained as to what work had been done on township roads.

ALLISON NOT TO SEEK LEADERSHIP OF CLUB

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—M. Ray Allison, state director of finance, and president of the League of Young Democratic Clubs of Ohio, today announced he would not be a candidate for reelection.

Allison said his duties as finance director in Governor Davey's cabinet required all of his time, and for that reason would be unable to accept the league's presidency for another two-year term.

In the four kingdoms of England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, in British dominions, colonies, protectorates, the 41 year old successor to his father, George V, was proclaimed king and emperor as "our only lawful and rightful liege Lord Edward VIII."

At 10 a. m. (5 a. m. EST) a battery of artillery in Hyde Park began booming out a 41 gun salute, one shot each minute to mark the 41 years of the king's life. A battery at the tower of London, farther eastward in the ancient "city" began a salute of 62 guns, one shot for each year of the king's age plus the sovereign's salute—his first—of 21 guns.

A few hundred yards from Hyde Park, the booming of the guns plainly audible, thousands were massed about old St. James's palace on the hill.

Soldiers formed cordons all around.

On a balcony of Friary court, in the palace yard not far from Pall Mall and its clubs and the exclusive shopping district, were ranged officers of arms, trumpeters and officials, many of them in the garb that has come down by tradition from medieval times.

KELLER ENTERS BOARD CONTEST

Scioto-Twp Farmer Seeking
Democratic Nomination

The already large list of candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for two county commissioner jobs was swelled again today by announcement of John B. Keller, Scioto-twp, that he is in the race. Mr. Keller obtained his petition Tuesday afternoon and immediately placed it in circulation.

Mr. Keller has been a farmer and thresherman for 25 years; he served two terms as township trustee, and is now acting as a township school board member for the third term. He lives 10 miles northwest of Circleville on Route 104.

His announcement makes six in the race on the Democratic side of the ticket, while the Republicans are "just watching," to quote a party leader. Others who announced include: Ralph E. May, Circleville-twp, incumbent; William H. Cline, Muhlenberg-twp; William Beavers, Circleville-twp; Scioto-twp; Leonard G. Schleich, Monroe-twp, and John Bailey, Monroe-twp. A candidate from the Ashville community has also been rumored as ready to file his declaration.

Burr H. Rader, Pickaway-twp, incumbent, has not taken any definite steps toward possible candidacy. Mr. Rader is now on the board for the second time, having served four years several years prior to election to his present term.

NEW VOLUNTARY A. A. A. IS READY FOR HOUSE VOTE

Broad Powers Given Secretary of Agriculture in Revised Erosion Law

PAYMENTS ARE PROVIDED

Present Set-Up to Execute Act; Jones, Bankhead Present Text

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)

Broad powers to control withdrawal of acreage from production and to make payments to farmers voluntarily cooperating were provided in the administration's bill to replace AAA, prepared for submission today to congress.

The program, which will be introduced as a bill amending the soil erosion act of 1935 in both the senate and house, grants the secretary of agriculture broad powers to control soil improvements and withdrawal of acreage from crop production.

To Be Voluntary

It provides a system of payments and aid grants to crop producers who comply with the program voluntarily.

The bill carries no appropriation, merely authorizes the secretary of agriculture to make such payments as are necessary to carry out the program.

The bill provides that the secretary of agriculture shall have the power to make payments or grant other aid to farmers based upon, first, their acreage of soil improving or erosion preventing crops, second, their acreage of crop lands, three, changes in the use of their land and, four, a percentage of their normal production of any

FESS FORECASTS NATION TO AGAIN PICK ROOSEVELT

CINCINNATI, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Former Senator Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, O., expressed the opinion here today that President Roosevelt would be re-elected.

"I doubt if any Republican candidate can defeat him," Fess, Ohio Republican leader, said.

Fess, however, said he believes the country will be divided into two sides in the coming political campaign, not along traditional party lines, but into New Deal and anti-New Deal forces.

The next congress, Fess predicted, probably will be composed largely of anti-New Dealers "who will effectually block the spendthrift policy of the present administration."

Prohibition, the veteran Republican believes, is a dead issue.

BONUS IS READY FOR EXECUTIVE; VETO EXPECTED

House Completes Action, Accepting Senate's Method of Payment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)

Congress slammed the $237,000,000 Soldiers bonus bill through the formalities of final passage today and prepared to do it all over again if necessary to over-ride a presidential veto.

The house completed action on the measure, providing for payment in baby bonds which may be cashed immediately or held as an investment, when it accepted the senate method of payment and dispatched the measure to the White House.

The overwhelming house majority in favor of the bill emphasized the belief of congress that it could pass the measure over a presidential veto. This attitude was based on the 74 to 16 senate vote in favor of the bill. The veto and final vote may come early next week.

The original house bill, passed with only 56 dissenting votes, called for immediate full cash payment but failed to specify how the money should be raised. The senate measure was substituted.

The bill that now goes to the White House provides for payment in $50 bonds, cashable in full after June 15, or they may be held drawing three per cent interest until 1945, the original time for payment of the adjusted service certificates.

The bill provides no means of raising the money to pay the bonus, but as yet there has been no definite indication of whether new taxes will be required.

RURAL SCHOOLS CLOSE AT NOON TRAFFIC HALTED

30 Cars Reported in Traffic
Tangle West of City;
Others Blocked

ZERO MARK IS PREDICTED

High Wind Drives Snow from
Fields Over Various Principal Highways

A severe blizzard lashed Friday-co Wednesday paralyzing rural traffic and causing closure of nearly all county schools.

Roads in all sections of the county were blocked with snow drifts, many four feet deep, and highway workers found their work in clearing them, less because of the high winds.

Few school buses were able to cover their entire route and in order to get the children home, more roads were blocked. A majority of the schools closed at noon. Buses in Scioto-twp. sent back with the children as soon as they arrived at the school. Officials were unable to say they would be open tomorrow.

39 Cars in Tangle

The worst conditions were east and west of town, where Route 23 just west of town was closed for two hours cause of a huge drift. Ten cars were trapped in the snow. Workers estimated 39 cars were figured in the traffic snarl.

All equipment of the highway department and county was used. Roads reported clear earlier in the morning were closed a few hours later and accurate clearing, open roads were practically impossible to obtain.

Charles Mowery, superintendent of state roads in the county, reported Routes 22 and 56 were open at noon but added "it is impossible for us to say if we will be able to keep the roads open. Route 23 was clear throughout the morning."

Like Sand Dunes

The blizzard, in addition to adding two inches of snow to the seven inches already on the ground, shifted drifts from fields into highways. The condition was that similar to a sand dune country.

Ohio was warned by W. H. Alexander, state meteorologist, to prepare for the severe cold wave of the season. The cold wave that centered Tuesday night over the northern part of the nation is moving eastward rapidly and will center over Ohio Wednesday night.

The forecast was for cloudy conditions and much lower temperatures tonight with more snow. Indications were Thursday would be fair and continued cold.

Northern Ohio temperatures were expected to drop to about 10 degrees below zero. Zero temperatures were forecast for central Ohio.

PRISON STRIKE HALTED QUICK MOVE

Warden Tells "Major" Criminals to Go to Work, or Go Without Food

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22—(UP)—Sentiment against steel-handled regulations shouldered among cell blocks of Alcatraz island penitentiary today as officials sought to restore operations to normal following the first serious mutiny. Guards redoubled vigilance and approximately half the convict population of the government's "Devil's Island" for the nation's most notorious criminals was locked in solitary confinement. Warden James A. Johnson declared the demonstrations were merely a break in our routine.

Rations Reduced

It's a question of the men or officials running Alcatraz," declared, announcing plans to place the participants on bread and water rations or by refusing them food until they agree to work. The men struck in the laundry, maintaining they wanted more privileges," he said. "What they actually wanted was laxity and leniency in the prison management."

About 80 men went on strike Monday, and 20 more joined them Tuesday," Warden Johnson said. Many did not strike of their own volition. There are many agitators within the convict ranks who fired them up.

"There was no violence and no forcible removal of guards from the outside is not required." The warden declined to name the men who participated in the revolt.

Rumors which have penetrated the silence which authorities have stamped down upon prison affairs, however, have indicated that many convicts, including Al (Scarson), Capone, George (Machine Gun) Kelly, Harvey Bailey, Alvin Karpis, and others listed as the country's most desperate criminals have been driven to the breaking point by the inflexible routine of prison life.

Silence Rule Cause

Information obtained from the warden and other sources indicated the outbreak consisted principally of violation of the Alcatraz silence rule, which some escaped released prisoners have insisted forbids talking among the prisoners except for a brief period once a week, and refusal of prison workers to do the work assigned them.

The warden admitted the prisoners had been "noisy," while other sources indicated they howled and shrieked their refusal to work when informed their demands had been refused.

It was indicated that guards and a number of prisoners learned of the anticipated outbreak in advance and that ringleaders were hunted out and given the alternative of continuing work or going to the prison dungeon.

Thus, if any violence was intended in original plans for the mutiny, it was forestalled before the demonstration began.

Alcatraz at present houses 250 prisoners.

Bonus Passage Brings Smiles to Leaders' Faces

MUTUAL congratulations are in order as senate leaders and veterans' chiefs celebrate overwhelming passage of the bonus bill in the senate, thereby indicating it would become a law whether President Roosevelt vetoes it or not. By a vote of 74 to 16 the senators approved the bill which proposes to pay the bonuses in special $50 bonds, which veterans could cash or hold and

Another Husband-Wife Combination on Radio

Peggy Baker to Join Phil; Others Are Allens, Bennys, Olsens; Rubinoff on Air Five Years

THE HUSBAND-AND-WIFE comedy act idea is growing. Another Mrs. in the person of Mrs. Phil Baker now makes her air debut as program partner of her humorist husband.

Mrs. Baker, who was formerly Miss Peggy Cartwright, and a noted actress, thus follows in the trim footsteps of Mrs. Jack Benny (Mary Livingstone, to you) and Mrs. Fred Allen, whom you may remember. Whether Peggy Baker will be "stooge" for her husband in the manner of Mrs. Benny or Mrs. Allen, you'll have to discover for yourself. Maybe not. The generous Baker doesn't mind playing the "stooge" himself as those who have followed his adventures with Beetle and Bottle know.

SIGNIFICANT of the change in attitude of broadcasters to their unseen audiences is seen in the increase of a more "folksy" method of address. Broadcasters have always striven to please but from radio broadcast's inception until not so very long ago the "ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience" form of address was very common.

Announcers have, at last, gotten away from the idea they were talking to a vast audience from an ethereal lecture platform. Today they understand their public as they really are—people in their living room, willing and eager to be informed and entertained and not prone to quick criticism.

So it's "Listen, folks—"

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is apparently as interested in his radio fan mail as any other air star.

The chief executive recently commented, during a broadcast, on the amount of mail and information he had gained from it, which he received as a result of a previous speech over the air.

STATE'S MONEY BILL NOW NEAR TEST IN HOUSE

Assembly Adds to Senate's Sum Despite Warnings of Administration

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22—(UP)—The new state appropriation bill necessitated by vetoes in the original bill was to come before the House of Representatives today carrying proposals for expenditure of $90,419,013.

Despite insistence of administration leaders that the bill's total should be cut $800,000, the house finance committee recommended passage of the measure with a net addition of $750 to the amount approved by the senate.

As it passed the senate, the bill included appropriations totaling $1,547,302 more than the budget approved by Governor Davey in his vetoes. As a result of the house committee's amendments, the bill is $1,548,052 above the governor's approval total.

Short of Two-thirds

Meanwhile, another deadlock prevented passage of the $10,500,000 Marlow-Kilpatrick relief bill to furnish funds needed urgently by relief authorities in several counties. The house yesterday voted 68 to 35 in favor of accepting senate amendments to the house relief bill but this majority fell short of the two-thirds vote required.

An attempt to reach a compromise on the relief problem was unsuccessful when a heated debate was climaxed by the charge of a Republican house member that J. Freer Bittenger, Democratic speaker, had "broken faith" with the Republican membership.

Rep. Albert J. Mayer, jr., (R) of Cincinnati made the charge of "broken faith" after Rep. Bishop Kilpatrick (D) failed to appear at an unofficial conference of house and senate delegates, intended as a compromise meeting on the relief bill.

"I came here to negotiate and found the majority side would not permit negotiation," Mayer said. "There is no use to confer further until the Democratic leadership of the house agrees to accept the senate's delegates as official conferees."

"I intend to tell Mr. Bittenger that I believe he violated a gentleman's agreement in keeping the third member of the house conference committee, Mr. Kilpatrick, away from the meeting."

The senate amendments would eliminate salaries for members of the state relief commission and provide for distribution of relief funds on a formula basis.

Senate members who attended the relief conference were Senators Harold D. Nichols (D) of Clinton-co. and Robert A. Pollock (R) of Stark-co. An attempt to hold another conference was to be made.

WALNUT-TWP SCHOOL

The I and II division of Home Economic girls are working on a dinner unit. They are studying the different types of service and the customs and manners that accompany each. The thirty members of the class are divided into four families and each family will serve one of the other families. Dinner invitations, table manners, and appetizing menus are the main parts in the study of "The Perfect Hostess."

The "Charming Girl" is the subject under discussion in the first year Home Economics class. Each girl selected the person she thought most charming and analyzed the factors that gave her charm. Good personal hygiene, attractive appearance, pleasing manners and friendly actions were among the traits selected. The girls in the class are making personal health charts and will check them for a period of two weeks. The correct ways of making introductions and good table manners will be included in the unit of work.

The Junior and Senior Agricultural boys have divided into two classes again while studying manure spreading. The spreaders coming from local farms are being cleaned and repainted.

The F. E. A. Basketball team played Groveport F. E. A. Wednesday evening, Jan. 8 each team winning one game. The games were well played and very close. Groveport winning the first by a score of 11-12 and Walnut the second 15-16.

Last Tuesday we played Muhlenberg on their floor. Our girls were victorious 26 to their 12. However, our boys were defeated 17 to 24.

Miss Jones, English teacher has been sick during the past week.

PATTERN 9612

Pert young Junior misses will go into raptures over this newest two-piece fashion. Give daughter the pattern and material for it, and see if she isn't eager to make it up herself. Any Junior who's old enough to wear it, is old enough to make it, for it's really very simple, using the Marian Martin Sew Chart as a guide. There's a captivating blouse with drop-shoulder yoke and sleeves that puff over so gently at the elbow. Buttons down the front mean it goes on in a jiffy. The skirt's a simple one, with kick-pleat to the fore, and she'll find it grand to wear with a variety of sweaters and blouses. Any diagonal weave woolen, a wool-appearing cotton or challis, would be nice. Complete. Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9612 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2½ yard 54 inch fabric and ½ yard 5 inch ribbon.

Be sure to send for OUR NEW PATTERN BOOK and see how easily your Spring wardrobe can reflect the latest fashion! Dozens of smart models for every occasion—some sketched, some photographed. Lovely new fabrics and how to make best use of them. New costume accessories. Smart blousing styles. Clothes that tell hints, patterns for the whole family. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald, Pattern Department, 210 N. Court-st., Circleville, Ohio.

LEGION TO HELP OBTAIN BONUSES

Local Office to Be Set Up; Information Needed

The local post of the American Legion is preparing to assist veterans of the city and county to file their applications for the bonus.

Fred Daenhauer, post commander, announced the opening date and location of an office for handling the applications will be announced as soon as more definite information about the setup is received from the Veterans' Bureau.

Mr. Daenhauer's statement issued Tuesday noon follows: "A staff of volunteer workers from the Legion and Auxiliary will be ready to receive applications as soon as instructions and blanks are received. We have been asked by the Veterans' Bureau to announce that application blanks will not be ready until three weeks after final passage of the bill. It will be useless for any veteran to write to the Veteran's Bureau as applications will be received locally."

Mr. Daenhauer's statement followed numerous calls for information about filing applications.

HOW INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY IS BEING CHANGED

Steam shovels instead of cannon, the international boundary line between the United States and Mexico is being changed near El Paso, Tex. The work is being straightened with engineering from both countries wielding steam shovels to remove millions of tons of earth. Meanderings of the upper Rio Grande are being cut from 155 miles to 88 miles, with the exchange of 7,000 acres of land between the two countries. The work will cost $6,000,000, of which the United States will provide 88 per cent, and Mexico 12 per cent. Aerial view shows scene.

BRITISH BELIEVE NEW KING WILL NOT TAKE WIFE

Juliana of Holland Considered
Only Possibility; She is
Last of Line

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The accession of Edward VIII has made it extremely improbable that he ever will marry, informed persons agreed today. The fact is, there is almost no woman in the world eligible.

Even should the king conquer his long aversion to marriage and seek a consort, his position makes it virtually mandatory that he look only in royal circles. Since the World War royal circles have shrunk, and in the last few years most of the few princesses royal have married.

Most eligible of European princesses, in the British public mind, is Princess Juliana of Holland. But Juliana probably would not consider a proposal because she is heir apparent to the Dutch throne and is the last of the House of Orange. Marriage to Edward would leave Holland without an heir.

Despite the obstacles, several London newspapers printed pictures today of the King and Princess Juliana in poses together at the Ascot races last June.

Edward never has avoided women and his name has been coupled romantically with almost every royal princess of the continent. One who always was considered the most eligible, Princess Ingrid of Sweden, eliminated herself last year by marrying the Crown Prince of Norway.

The only other eligibles are the former Grand Duchess Kyra of Russia, and the Princesses Irene, Catherine and Eugenie of Greece. The Grand Duchess Kyra is ruled out for reasons of state and the House of Windsor always has held itself superior to an alliance with the small Balkan houses.

Speculators on the king's probable course recalled a question attributed to him some years back: "If Britain had a virgin queen, why not a bachelor king?" and guessed that he probably still was of the same mind.

RURAL SCHOOLS CLOSE AT NOON; TRAFFIC HALTED

and near zero in the extreme southern part of the state.

The local temperature was relatively mild Tuesday night. Dr. H. R. Clarke, local recorder, reported 18 degrees the lowest. Cleveland at noon reported a 13-degree drop in three hours.

Lights On At Noon

The arrival of the blizzard Wednesday morning darkened the skies like night. Electric lights were used in downtown offices. Traffic lights could not be seen 100 feet away. Throughout northern Ohio deep drifts paralyzed automobile travel.

Bus travel out of Sandusky was suspended temporarily.

Port Columbus and employees at Cleveland airport reported the storm endangered schedules of the transcontinental airplanes. Port Columbus officials said dispatchers had been ordered to instruct pilots on both eastward and westward planes to avoid the usual stop at the airport. The planes from the west will continue to Pittsburgh and those eastward to Chicago instead of making the customary Columbus stop. A general order to ground all planes was dependent on storm developments later today.

"Explosion Buggy" Treasured
NEWTON, Iowa.—A 1907, two-cylinder automobile, manufactured in a Waterloo, Iowa, plant, has been purchased by Fred L. Maytag, II, grandson of the partner in the pioneer auto firm. The "explosion buggy," as the car was called when it first appeared, was purchased from the estate of an owner who had used it until his death three years ago.

LAVAL QUIT AS FRENCH PREMIER

President Lebrun Accepts; "Strength" is Blamed

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Premier Pierre Laval, chief advocate of keeping France on the gold standard, presented his resignation and that of his entire cabinet today to President Albert Lebrun. The president accepted.

Laval acted after the four Radical-Socialist members of the cabinet, headed by Edouard Herriot, resigned on demand of the party executive.

The real reason for Laval's fall was that the left wing felt he was getting too strong throughout the country, and decided on his removal before the coming parliamentary elections.

Laval, who is influential with the banks, has been the main factor in preventing devaluation in his fight to solve the country's economic difficulties. He has also played a leading part in the international situation on the Geneva stage.

THE SEAFARING CAT
 RIGHT in the middle of a naval conference at London a sly attempt is being made to deny, or, at any rate, seriously to limit, the freedom of the seas to the old-fashioned international traveler on record. An attack, in fine, has been directed against the ship's cat and this startling campaign, championed by no less an agency than the British ministry of agriculture and fisheries, apparently is gaining momentum. What the tabbies themselves think about it has not definitely been disclosed, although one or two close observers along the London docks are strongly of the impression that there is a distinct feline feeling of amazement at man's ingratitude.

Scientific research may have led to discovery of ways and means to rid ships of rats without the assistance of cats, but this does not seem to be the prime reason for the anti-cat movement on vessels flying the Union Jack. The enemies of puss cloak themselves in the guise of health-protectors, asserting that cats may, and in their opinion frequently do, act as carriers of diseases worse, perhaps, than rats and, therefore, must be sternly regulated, if not banished entirely from the waves.

Around cats, as with pretty much everything connected with the sea, superstitions have clustered these many centuries. The ship's cat becomes only a memory—there are nine lives to be reckoned with before this happens—there will be superstitions about cat ghosts on shipboard. It is a far cry from ancient Egypt's deification of the cat to the iconoclastic attitude of modern British officialdom.

Japan's contribution to disarmament at the London naval conference consists of not demanding a navy as large as all the others combined.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Nothing that Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate subcommittee investigating committee, could say personally would be as damaging as the actual evidence introduced so far.

The general public does not get a glance at that evidence. It is too voluminous for the majority of newspapers to publish. Even excerpts for the daily news dispatches would take up too much space.

We shall give a few brief excerpts.

HOUSE TO WILSON
 First of all, there is this in a letter, dated May 14, 1916, from Colonel Edward M. House to President Woodrow Wilson:

"One thing that works against you is the alienated Americans living in both Paris and London. By their wealth and position they have the ears of the members of the governments Whitney Warren in Paris is a type and I have been told is very close to Briand. Bacon is another."

"The members of the firm of Morgan & Co. are close to both governments (British and French) and you may be sure there is nothing your administration does that is condemned."

They try to create the feeling of a triumph for the Allies after the war continues after November things will be different."

IN OPPOSING WILSON
 Let us skip to Dec. 31, 1916, when Wilson was put out of office for peace. His secretary of state, Robert Lansing, and the American ambassador in London, Walter Hines Page, had been steadily trending the United States toward participation in the war with the Allies, but President Wilson, together with the Pope in Rome, evidently remained hopeful that the Teutonic nations would agree to a peace—a peace with "victory" to none.

That petriod Anglo-French loans. President Wilson made an announcement.

J. P. Morgan immediately called his partner in London, E. C. Grenfell, and here is the cablegram:

"Distressed and mortified beyond measure by the president's pronouncement of this morning, which seems to indicate that he has no appreciation of the difference between the conduct of the Allies and of the Central Powers."

"It seems that, realizing that he had made a mistake in putting it out, he tried to correct it by Lansing's statement, which has rather made matters worse. Do not forget, however, in talking about it, that what the president says does not change the feeling of the country, which I still believe is more than 50 per cent pro-ally and I think will continue so."

TREND CONTINUES
 Morgan won out. Intense pro-ally propaganda swept the United States. The House of Morgan succeeded in floating the third United Kingdom loan in the United States.

The United States had voted to retain the Wilson administration.

FRENCH, BRITISH TO INTERVENE

WITH NEW PEACE PLAN TO RESCUE ITALY

WASHINGTON — Confidential reports received by the State Department from Italy indicate a much more desperate condition than has leaked out through censored press dispatches.

Not only have Italian troops in East Africa been defeated, but there has been increasing restlessness at home. Strikes have taken place in several Italian munitions plants. There has been disaffection among the Alpine troops, pride of the Italian Army, with the result that some of them are being transferred to the Abyssinian front.

Finally, an underground Communist organization is reported to be gaining ground throughout Italy.

All of these situations have contributed to a secret Franco-British plan to intervene with a new peace plan to save Italy.

While they dislike and distrust Mussolini, the French and British cannot afford to have him crack up. This especially is the view of the French. Mussolini, as a checkmate against Hitler's Austrian ambitions, is worth far more to the French than any altruism in Abyssinia.

The new peace plan will not go as far as the Hoare-Laval agreement. Also the French and British, this time, will try first to get the official stamp of the League. It will be put forward as a League plan.

What the British frankly fear is that Mussolini, facing defeat in East Africa, will try to save face by persuading his people that they are being attacked by Europe, and become the mad dog of the Mediterranean. This would precipitate general war.

NEW AAA

Now that the plan of revamping the AAA is completed, Henry Wallace is almost of the opinion that the overhauling may have done some good after all.

Reason is that when Wallace first became Secretary of Agriculture, one thing he wanted to accomplish was an all-embracing system of soil conservation, whereby the Government could help rebuild the land on every man's farm.

However, even in the days of the Brain Trust, this was considered too idealistic and visionary. It was marked down as something to aim at within the next few years.

But now, under the revamped AAA, this goal virtually has been attained. Its provision whereby a farmer sets aside a certain acreage each year also gives the Government the right to tell him how it shall be planted—in legumes, grass, etc., according to chemical analysis of the soil.

This is virtually what Wallace originally wanted.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 51

I HAD BEEN questioning Miss Cambridge on the way home from Mr. Daren's funeral concerning that eventful night. I was trying to check up on my own deductions.

She had recalled one noise I had forgotten—a noise made by me, when I bumped into a chair as I came into the dining room.

"That's what I mean," I told Miss Cambridge, "when I asked if you had heard a noise. I had forgotten that until now. I did bump into a chair, that one just inside the door, underneath the light button."

And I remember I muttered something to myself. It wasn't until I was in the pantry that I heard you in the kitchen. You say you were there 10 minutes before I came in?"

"More or less," said the school teacher. "I can't be sure. I looked at my watch before I started down and it was 15 minutes to 1. It couldn't have taken more than two minutes to get downstairs. You may be sure that if I had heard Mr. Withers under your window, I would have saved you a trip downstairs, and opened the door for him. You know that."

I nodded.

"You didn't hear anyone on the back stairs while you were in the kitchen preparing your milk? Before I came in?"

"I didn't. The house was very quiet. I stressed that to Lieutenant Larrabee."

"No one walked above you?"

"In Mrs. Starnott's room?"

"Mrs. Starnott's room was above the kitchen. With its two occupants, for Grace had admitted to me she spent the night on Mrs. Starnott's chaise-loungue, Miss Cambridge might have heard something."

"Nothing. The rugs are very heavy, and the floors are thick. I didn't hear anything from above."

"No water running in the house?"

Sometimes a faucet turned on in the dead of the night in my house seems very loud.

She shook her head.

"I've been over this with Lieutenant Larrabee."

I sighed.

"You said you were restless before you finally came downstairs for some hot milk. Did you hear anything while you were in bed in your room?"

"I've been over that, too, and I've told Lieutenant Larrabee what I know. Janet left her room for half an hour and then came back at 11:30. I was upstairs at 10:30, you know, my usual hour. I can always tell when her door opens. I walked past my room, and down the stairs. I'm sure of that. I don't know where she went."

I did. She went down to Andrew Daren's room.

"When she came back I heard something drop and back to her room. It sounded like glass."

"I knew that, too. In her nervous confusion when she had returned from her interview with Mr. Daren, the glass of water Janet was taking fell from her hands into the porcelain bowl.

"You aren't turning detective, are you, Mrs. Penny?" Miss Cambridge asked, curiously.

I decided to be frank.

"I've got to help Lucy some way. That's why I'm asking these questions. I'm afraid unless I do—"

I paused, hardly knowing how to continue. I didn't want Miss Cambridge to suspect what Dr. Rudemar had told me, but I did want her to know that Lucy was in danger—of arrest.

"Lieutenant Larrabee suspects her?"

"I think so." He didn't yet, but he would as soon as he heard what Dr. Rudemar had to say. I had only until the next day to help her.

If I could get Marcella Cambridge interested in trying to help me—

"How do you know?"

"I know. He's been asking me questions about her—"

He hadn't especially, but I didn't want to give a hint of Dr. Rudemar. I wanted her to feel Lucy's danger without knowing all the details.

The cab stopped and we hurried into the house. Miss Cambridge went up to her room, and I went to the kitchen where Grace had almost finished preparations for dinner. She was looking extraordinarily pleased.

"It's about Mr. Hemingway," she whispered as she drew near me. "I think he's going to be arrested. Sergeant Ross just told me that Lieutenant Larrabee has him dead to rights. He seems pretty well pleased about it. Mr. Hemingway has been in the sitting room with Lieutenant Larrabee ever since you left. He's still there."

Fifteen minutes later Ross brought word from Larrabee that he wished to see me.

There was no sign of Martin Hemingway when I went into the sitting room. Kirk Larrabee was alone, scribbling in his notebook. He didn't look up when I entered, so I sat down. I hoped he wouldn't keep me too long because it was necessary that I get back into the kitchen as soon as I could. Grace had been splendid about taking hold, but I couldn't ask much of her.

"Well," Larrabee asked, after what seemed to be half an hour, although in reality it wasn't more than a few minutes.

"How was the funeral?"

"Oh, the funeral." Although it had been only an hour and a half since the funeral, it had completely forgotten about it until his question.

"All right."

"You didn't see the corpse, but Miss Cambridge did, eh?"

I must have looked puzzled for he laughed.

"If you want to know about the funeral, Lieutenant Larrabee, I said, 'You have only to ask your men who attended.'"

"I gave Mrs. Penny, but I want to get your reaction to it. Does Miss Cambridge always look into caskets?"

"Really, I've never been to a funeral with her before, but she probably does."

"Normal, then?" he persisted. When I didn't answer, he continued: "I take it you don't like funerals. Also that you used the occasion as an excuse to call Dr. Rudemar. Splendid co-operation, if I may say so, Mrs. Penny."

"The man had the most uncanny way of scenting the truth. I flushed, and he knew he was right."

"If you don't need me any more, I really must go back to the kitchen."

"Unfortunately, I do need you, Mrs. Penny, so if you will be good enough to stay—"

He picked up Della's letter to her mother.

"In the face of your call to Dr. Rudemar, I would much rather not ask your advice about this letter, but I must. You talked with Mrs. Randall, didn't she? She attached some importance to the letter, didn't she?"

"She wouldn't have given it to me if she hadn't."

"Had she seen Della to talk to since her daughter came here to work?"

"No, she hadn't. They corresponded twice a week."

"So she knows nothing of Della's likes and dislikes? Except through her letters?"

"Exactly." We were at odds once more. I hoped it wouldn't be for long because I wanted his friendship.

"Did you speak to Miss Cambridge about this letter?"

"I did not."

"What do you think about it?"

"I? The same thing that you think about it."

"And what do I think about it?"

"You probably think it unimportant as I do. After all, Della might have been startled when she found Marcella Cambridge in her room, but after the gift of the shoes—"

He took the rest of the sentence out of my mouth.

"Della forgot the incident in her gratefulness for Miss Cambridge's generosity. Which means to me that Della would have admitted Miss Cambridge to her room just the same. So the letter doesn't give us any new light as it should. Too bad, Mrs. Penny. You may go now."

Not a word about Mr. Hemingway and why he had been questioned so long. By calling Dr. Rudemar I had forfeited his confidence. I was sorry in a way, and glad in another, for I didn't want to stay in that room any longer with Kirk Larrabee trying to read my thoughts.

What was on my mind now was my private and individual business—until I was sure I was right or wrong. I kept telling myself I must be wrong. All the time I was in the kitchen helping Grace. I kept repeating to myself that I was wrong. I must be. It was too horribly, morbidly impossible. I broke three plates in five minutes. Grace blamed the breakage on my fatigue, but I blamed it on something else—the grove my thoughts were falling in. The case I was building up in my mind against one of my own people.

The recent trend toward broadening the audience appeal of spine-tingling action melodramas through the use of comedy is advanced by "Another Face," which has Wallace Ford, Brian Donlevy and Phyllis Brooks in principal roles.

In testimony the other day, Thomas W. Lamont, senior Morgan partner, asked Senator Bennett Champ Clark (a Democrat, incidentally):

"Are you really intimating to Mr. Morgan that we (the House of Morgan) asserted or had any influence with the Democratic administration of President Wilson?" (The election had passed and the Morgan group had failed to gain a victory for the Republicans, which they believed would have been a triumph for the Allies.)

Senator Clark responded with alacrity:

"We put in a day and a half here the other day demonstrating at least to my own satisfaction, that you had had a very great influence with the Democratic administration through the exchange market, which was the lever, as I suggested, by which the whole neutrality policy of the United States was changed, authorizing the flotation of these Allied loans in the United States which later, to my mind, contributed so much toward bringing the United States into the war."

Senator William G. McAdoo of California was secretary of the treasury then and he used pressure on recalcitrant members of the federal reserve board in regard to the exchange policy. He explained how fully in letters to President Wilson and to others.

Poems That Live

TWILIGHT

Spirit of Twilight, through your folded wings
 I catch glimpse of your averted face,
 And rapturous on a sudden, my soul sings
 'Tis not this common earth a holy place?"

Spirit of Twilight, you are like a song
 That sleeps, and waits a singer—
 Like a hymn
 That God finds lovely and keeps near Him long,
 Till it is choired by aureoled cherubim.

Spirit of Twilight, in the golden gloom
 Of dreamland dim I sought you,
 And I found
 A woman sitting in a silent room
 Full of white flowers that moved and made no sound.

These white flowers were the thoughts you bring to all,
 And the room's name is Mystery where you sit.
 Woman whom we call Twilight, when night's pall
 You lift across our Earth to cover it.

 It was in a small town down south on a hot and dusty day. The Negro population was engaged in an important ball game. It was a big event and all the good-looking girls were there.

The umpire was a big, ragged replica of the eight ball. The visiting team's cleanup man was at bat and the bases were loaded.

"Ball one, high."

"Ball two, low."

"Ball three, inside."

"Ball four, low and wide—you are out."

"How does yo' talk, Mister Ump? Ah gets a base fo' dat."

"Brother, you's right, but de bases am loaded, and I ain't got no place to put you. You is out!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Showing How Body Uses Food as Fuel for Energy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE said that the largest part of our food intake is used, not for replacing the broken-down tissues of the body, but for energy.

In order to be scientific about anything we have to have a method of measurement. The method of measuring heat is, of course, by the thermometer, and using that we get a heat unit, which is called "calorie."

A calorie is simply a certain amount of heat. It is the amount that is necessary to raise 1 kilogram of water 1 degree Centigrade (or 1 pound of water 8 degrees Fahrenheit). Put in understandable terms, 1 calorie is used by the body when you rise from a sitting position in front of a door, turn the key in the door, and sit down. If you walk an hour on a level road at the rate of about 3 miles an hour, you use 160 more calories than you would if you sat still. A man 150 pounds, walking up a flight of stairs 10 feet high, spends about 4 calories. Ironing and dishwashing require about 25 calories more than sitting still. Scrubbing floors requires 50 additional calories. Thirty calories an hour more are used by a typist writing at the rate of 50 words a minute. A single 15-candle lamp gives off about 45 calories an hour.

Obviously, the number of calories anybody uses depends upon the weight and the amount of activity. In general, we can say that an adult uses about 12 calories per pound in 24 hours at rest, about 20 at moderate work, and about 25 at hard work. Children require somewhat more.

This energy is supplied, as has been said, by the three food elements—carbohydrate, fats and proteins.

Fats produce about 9 calories per gram, proteins and carbohydrates about 4. For a man of average weight and activity, therefore, an average diet will contain about 400 grams of carbohydrate and about 100 grams each of fat and protein.

There is hardly anything in all medical science that has been so completely worked out mathematically as this question of energy utilization of foods. The whole vocabulary of calories is built around this science.

Heat Common Energy
 The commonest form of energy in the world is heat, and heat, in this sense, depends upon the union of oxygen with some other substance. This process is called "oxidation," which is no different than the common word "burning." Almost all the energy in the body comes from oxidation. We do produce a little electric energy in the nerve pathways, but it is infinitesimal compared to the amount of heat energy that we use.

Most of it comes from the burning of sugars and starches

Husbands Guests at Annual D. A. R. Dinner

Delegates Elected; Major H. M. Ervin Is Speaker

Pickaway Plains chapter Daughters of the American Revolution enjoyed a delightful evening Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Briggs, N. Scioto-st., when members entertained their husbands and friends at an annual covered-dish dinner at 6 o'clock.

A short business meeting was held after the dinner at which time delegates and alternates were elected to the state meeting of the D. A. R. in Springfield, March 16 through the 19.

Mrs. George Hunsicker, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, Mrs. Paul Cromley, Mrs. William Mack were named delegates and alternates are Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Mrs. Hervey Swayer, and Miss Alice Ada May.

Delegates elected to the national D. A. R. meeting in Washington in April are Mrs. George Hunsicker and Mrs. Briggs. Mrs. Harry Heffner and Mrs. Harp Van Riper are alternates.

After the business the guest speaker, Major H. M. Ervin of the medical corp of the United States army, gave a wonderfully instructive and entertaining talk. His topic was "Medical Service in Revolutionary Times." He vividly contrasted the lack of doctors, medicine, equipment, hospitals and attention of any kind given to the wounded and sick soldiers during their fight for freedom, to the tremendous medical department of the present modern army where there are twelve men out of every 100 enlisted men in the medical department, safe guarding in every way the health of the soldiers and uplifting the morale of the family at home.

The music of the evening was a group of songs by Mrs. Paul Cromley with Mrs. Martin Cromley at the piano. Her numbers were "Still as the Night," "Lassie of Mine," and "Big Brown Bear."

Mrs. Martin Cromley contributed two piano solos, "Poem" by Rafee and "Romance" by LaForge.

175 at Celebration

One hundred and seventy-five called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ashbrook in Fairfield-co, near Amanda, Tuesday afternoon and evening when they held open house in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The affair was a delightful informal occasion and one long to be remembered by those attending. The couple received many gifts, greetings and telegrams from numerous friends that could not be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashbrook are known in this county having lived at their present home since their marriage fifty years ago and being residents of the Amanda vicinity their entire lives.

They are parents of Mrs. Leslie May, E. Franklin-st. Mrs. Ashbrook is 73 years of age and Mr. Ashbrook 77 and both are enjoying good health.

The table where refreshments were served was centered with yellow roses and lighted with gold candles. Mrs. Callie Moore of Los Angeles, Calif., a sister of Mrs. Ashbrook, poured tea.

The honored couple's son and daughters, Price Ashbrook of Chillicothe, Mrs. May and Mrs. Frank C. Blue of Columbus acted as hosts.

Mrs. Reger Entertains

Mrs. Paul Miller was a substituting guest when Mrs. Elmer Reger, S. Court-st., entertained the members of her two table bridge club at her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Melvin Yates was winner of prize for high score in contract. Lunch was served at the small tables.

Mrs. Yates invited the club to meet at her home on E. Franklin-st next week.

Miss Phillips Hostess

Miss Mary Ellen Phillips, Pinckney-st., entertained with a bridge party Tuesday evening at the American Hotel Coffee shop. Guests were members of her club and Mrs. Jay Clark.

Two tables of cards were in play and prizes went to Miss Helen Steele and Miss Eleanor Ryan for high scores. Refreshments were served after the game.

Mrs. Mac Mader, E. Main-st., will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

Mrs. Kinsey Honored

Mrs. I. W. Kinsey, E. Main-st. was honored Tuesday evening when members of her bridge club arranged a dinner party at her home in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The affair was a pleasant surprise for Mrs. Kinsey.

Guild Meeting

The January meeting of the Otterbein guild of the United Brethren church was enjoyed Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Jane Huffer, N. Pickaway-st.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood opened the meeting with prayer and after a short business session the program leader, Miss Jessie Cummings, was in charge.

Challenge by the leader was followed by group singing of "We've a Story to Tell." The group was led through Africa on an imaginary trip. Miss Mary Elizabeth Groce told about Freetown; Miss Cummings about Albert academy; Miss Louise Goldsberry about Rotifunk; the leader about the school for girls, and Miss Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick about "Our School at Tiama."

Prayer by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick concluded the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Misses Alice and Jane Huffer.

Grange to Give Play

The Scioto grange will present the play "Two Days to Marry" at the Scioto school auditorium Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, at 8:15 o'clock.

Seven members of the grange will portray the characters and the production is being directed by Mrs. Hazel West.

It is a comedy drama in three acts and promises to furnish many laughs for the audience. Characters will be played by C. V. Neal as Simon P. Chase, as black as his race, Bill Rush as James J. Dare, a wifeless heir; Otis Williams as Ruford B. Sawyer, a timid lawyer; Emma Hudson as Emily Jane Pink, blacker than ink; Jesse Hill as Sadie L. Boise, a widow by choice; Blanche Rush as Imogene McShane, a sweet young thing; and Virgil Hill as Walter M. Blair, a millionaire.

The story centers around the millionaire, who advertizes for a wife. This causes quite a mix-up and it is interesting to see how he gets out of this predicament.

Berry, and a playlet, "Unfortunate Mr. Jones," presented by Hoyt Timmons and Edna Timmons.

Lamb Stew with Vegetables
Celery Cabbage with French Dressing
Chocolate Layer Cake
Coffee or Tea

This recipe for lamb stew furnishes one of the popular and nutritious one-dish meals that are easily prepared and comparatively inexpensive.

Today's Recipes

Lamb Stew—Two pounds lamb, one quart potato cubes, one pint quartered carrots, one pint small, peeled onions, one cup tomatoes, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons chopped parsley. Cut meat into small pieces and roll in flour to which salt and pepper have been added. Brown in hot fat. Cover with boiling water and stew slowly for one and one-half hours. Add onions, carrots, potatoes, seasonings and tomatoes, and cook until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Add dumplings, cover closely and cook ten minutes without raising cover. Remove stew to hot platter, surround with dumplings, sprinkle with parsley.

Dumplings—One cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cold water or milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add enough liquid to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls into hot stew and steam, covered, for ten minutes. There must be plenty of gravy to cook dumplings successfully.

Chocolate Layer Cake—One-half cup shortening, one and one-fourth cups sugar, three eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, two and one-fourth cups pastry flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup milk. This recipe makes one large loaf or three nine-inch layers.

Chocolate Filling and Icing—Four squares unsweetened chocolate, two tablespoons butter, one-half cup milk, three tablespoons cornstarch, three and one-half cups confectioner's sugar, two egg yolks, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla extract, four tablespoons heavy cream. Melt chocolate and butter together in top of double boiler. Stir constantly with milk. Add cornstarch with milk. Add slowly to melted chocolate, stirring until thick and smooth. Add salt to egg yolks; add to first mixture. Continue cooking while beating until smooth. Add flavoring and cool. Use half this mixture to spread thickly between layers of the cake. Add to other half remaining two cups sugar and cream slowly, beating until smooth. Spread on top and sides of cake.

About THIS and THAT In Many Sports

Marysville to Invade

Marysville is the Red and Black foe Friday evening on the local court. Jerry Kingsmore's boys were unbeaten until last night when Delaware, victor over the Tigers, 12-5, administered a 20-24 victory to gain undisputed possession of first place. In the other CBL game Tuesday, Westerville took Huxley, 26-19. The local crew still has a chance to gain a tie for the league leadership by beating Marysville since Delaware must take on Westerville Friday, and may lose. Had John Jenkins been able to play against Delaware, the Tigers would have had a clean slate in the league right now.

Cheerleading Helps

A few roses, no more than that, to the Tiger cheerleaders, the student body and the band for their work Tuesday evening. It looks as though a little spurring were needed to awaken the school forces to their possibilities. The cheering, the enthusiasm and the pep shown Tuesday night was something to behold after being forced to listen to another school do all the cheering for the last couple of games. A pep rally at the school, Tuesday, in which the "riot" act was read, helped stir up the spirit. Remember, there is another game Friday evening.

Andrews, Styers Hit

Cecil Andrews and Chuck Styers had their batting eyes working overtime collecting 20 points, the former 11, the latter nine. The Tiger defense was superlative from start to finish with few open shots and being hurried on all of those. Forrest, Grandview's chief threat, broke loose for two goals in the early part of the first period, but he was safely muzzled after that, and Grandview had to be content with shooting from back of the foul circle. Only six action buckets were scored by Jim Scott's boys while the Tigers caged 14.

All the Red and Black team did well with Don Henry doing his best caging of the year. Andrews, too, showed improved form and Styers hit as he has been expected. Jenkins and Melson did nobly on the defense, and both added needed points. The work of Friley, Plum and Griffith was also pleasing. Grandview had no serious threats except Forrest. The first half ended 17-8 in favor of the Tigers. In the reserve tilt the Bobcats were victorious, 12-5. Tom Morgan of Ohio university capably handled the whistle.

TWO GAMES SCHEDULED

Two basketball games are on the schedule at the Armory Tuesday evening when the reorganized Monarchs, now the Wonder Five, take on the Lan-ster Brown Bombers. A preliminary will match the Emery and Flying Clouds. The first game is at 7:30.

Yanks Mean Business

The New York Yankees are out for bear this year in the American league. They offered Cleveland $241,000 for outfielders Vosmik and Averill, and it was turned down. That's a lot of pickles, but so are Vosmik and Averill.

Sports Sprinklings

The referee for Friday night's CBL game against Marysville will be Bob Sher, our old pal. George "Tubby" Vlerobome witnessed the game Tuesday evening. 'Twas good to see him able to be back among his old friends. Basketball fans will trek Ashville-ward tonight to see the gladiators of that school meet Pickaway. The Muhlenberg-Salt Creek game has been moved up to Thursday evening. The county coaches had their regular meeting Tuesday evening and adjourned early to view the Tiger-Bobcat game. From Al Kauber, Ashville coach: "I'm glad we weren't playing Circleville tonight." Kauber's boys beat the Tigers with Chuck Styers III and in the stands; last night he caged nine points which would have been plenty to beat the up-county team of fine ball players.

Haarlow's Court Record Rivals Berwanger's Mark

Athlete Always High Scorer But Has Never Played on Title Team; Discusses His Favorite Shots

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Bill Haarlow, captain and amazing shotmaker of the Chicago basketball team, stepped lightly onto the playing floor in the Maroon fieldhouse, eager to begin another routine practice session. His straight black hair contrasted sharply to the clean white sweatshirt which covered the upper half of his lean body.

He dipped his hands into a bur-lap bag, pulled out a basketball and fondled it almost with reverence. None of the other players had appeared, so while they finished dressing Haarlow sat on a table along the sidelines and talked frankly about his favorite sport.

His basketball record has been as remarkable as the football record compiled by that other astonishing Chicago senior, Jay Berwanger. As a sophomore, Haarlow scored 109 points in Big Ten competition. Last year he led the conference with 156 points, compiling 54 field goals and 51 free throws. He is leading the league in the current race with 56 points, scored in four games.

Haarlow played four years on the Bowen high team, in Chicago, and this is his third year at the midway, but in all that time he never has competed on a championship outfit.

The most points he ever scored in one game was 52. That happened one time in high school when he got 24 baskets and four free throws. His record in a single Big Ten game is 22, against Northwestern when he was a sophomore. Haarlow revealed that his favorite shot, and the easiest one for him to make, is a one handed heave inside the free throw line.

"I thought the new three second rule would hinder me this year," he explained, "because I had been used to short shots from the circle. As a matter of fact, I only made three baskets in high school from outside the free throw line."

"But I found the rule didn't make much difference. I've been getting longer shots, taking time to get set and then using both hands. If a guard is there to prevent the shot, I like to drive in and try for the foul."

CUNNINGHAM PREPARES TO DEFEND HIS TITLES

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, holder of the world's mile record of 4:06.7, will defend his three-won laurels in the Wanamaker mile, feature of the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden Feb. 1.

His rivals will be Gene Venzke, former holder of the indoor mile record of 4:10; Donald Lash of Indiana, western conference mile champion; Archie San Romani, national collegiate A. A. champion and one other entry to be named later. Cunningham won the Wanamaker mile in 1933 in 4:13, in 1934 in 4:11.2 and in 1935 in 4:11.

NEGRO SCHOOL ADMITTED TO SPORT ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Paul Laurence Dunbar high school of Dayton was to be admitted to the Ohio High School Athletic Association today. The Dayton school is for Negro students exclusively and will be the only institution of its kind holding membership in the state association.

OHIO UNIVERSITY HAS CHANCE TO CAUSE TIE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A chance to intensify the scramble for the championship in the Buckeye conference and throw the league leadership into a three way tie rests tonight with Ohio University's inconsistent basketball quintet.

The Bobcats meet the pace setting University of Cincinnati at Athens in a contest which heads a four game program in the state.

Ohio has a record of five victories and four defeats. Against conference foes it has gained two triumphs and lost one decision. Coach Brandon T. Grover opened the season determined to employ an All-Sophomore five. The plan wasn't entirely successful and after the Bobcats floundered against teams rated less formidable than themselves, Grover inserted the veteran George May into his starting lineup to give the team balance.

CAUGHT NAPPING

THE FOLLOWING deal appeared at one of the regular Thursday duplicate games at the Knickerbocker Whist club, New York, and about half the players sitting North allowed themselves to be trapped into having to give a game at spades to West. The incident simply illustrates how players, thinking that game is lost, allow themselves to drift into a condition of mental apathy that really causes the game to be lost.

At several tables bidding went: West, 1-Spade; East, 3-Spades; West, 4-Spades, ending the auction.

The popular opening lead was the 3 of clubs. Dummy's Ace won the trick. The J of spades lost to the K. Another club was led and lost to declarer's K. A second round of trumps captured all outstanding spades. A low diamond was led from declarer's hand. Some North players at once put up their Ace. Others did so on the second round of diamonds, after declarer had re-entered his hand by means of a trump and again led diamonds through North. In either event North won a single diamond trick and East won two tricks in the suit. The final lead always was left in dummy, and a heart was led. At two tables, which we will designate as A and B, the Ace of hearts won the eighth trick. North held the K-5 of hearts, only. At table A, North played low when the Ace won, then he took the second heart trick with his K.

Mr. A North was in a predicament. He held only the J of diamonds and the 9-8-6 of clubs. Neither declarer nor dummy held either a diamond or a club. When North led a minor suit card dummy ruffed and declarer discarded his last heart, just going game through North's apathy. At table B, the Ace of hearts went on the eighth trick, but North seeing that he could not save game if he won the next trick, underplayed his K of hearts. As a result declarer had to lose the ninth and tenth tricks to South's two top hearts, and went down a trick.

WEATHER INTERFERES WITH TOWNSHIP INSTITUTES

THREE SPEAKERS ARE DELAYED BY BLOCKED ROADS

Only 13 Present as Deer-creek Program Opens; Others Elect Officers

Highways blocked by snow-drifts caused lengthy delays in opening institutes at Williamsport and Derby, Wednesday morning. Mrs. C. R. Milnor, Pickerington, state speaker, and George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, scheduled to speak at the morning session in Williamsport, were unable to reach the Deer-creek-twp village until shortly before noon.

Williamsport residents reported only about 12 persons present for the institute opening. Students of the high school and eighth grade were dismissed to attend the session. The school closed at 1 p. m. for students to return to their homes before the condition of the roads became worse.

Small Group Present
Dr. B. O. Skinner, Columbus, former state director of education, state speaker for the Derby institute Wednesday morning, had not reached the school at noon. Only a small group was present for the program.

If the snowstorm continues institute officers said they did not know what arrangements would be made for the programs on Thursday.

Institutes at Five Points and Atlanta closed Tuesday evening with presentations of home talent plays. The entertainment at Atlanta was presented by the Parent-Teacher association and Monroe alumni presented a minstrel. Both institutes reported large attendance.

Officers elected at Five Points during the afternoon session are: E. R. McCoy, president; H. S. Hatfield, vice president, and Fred Call, secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Ruth Ater was named hostess and members of the executive committee are Carl Hosler, George Pemberton and Ruby Smith.

The newly elected Perry-twp institute officers are: Joseph Owens, president; Wendell Evans, vice president, and Wiley Campbell, Jr., secretary and treasurer. The Scioto Valley Institute at Ashville and the Tariton Institute open Friday morning for two-day sessions and institutes in Commercial Point and Saltcreek-twp will be held Jan. 27 and 28.

Officers of the Saltcreek-twp event are: Clayton Bowsher, president; Kelly Hinton, vice president; E. C. Shupe, secretary; E. H. Fetherolf, treasurer, and Mary Fraunfelder, hostess. Members of the executive committee are Mary Porter, Thomas Hockman, Lena Crawford and Erving Beougher. The state speakers will be Mr. Skinner and Mrs. Milnor.

V. OF F. W. NOTICE

The regular business and social meeting of Henry Page Folsom Jr. Post No. 3331 will be held Thursday in Memorial Hall. All members are requested to attend and be there promptly at 8 p. m. All officers are to report promptly at 7 p. m. to go through the ritual before the regular meeting is opened.

This meeting will be of interest to every veteran, as some important subjects are to be discussed, especially regarding the Bonus. Any veteran eligible to the "Gold Chevron Order" who is interested, and would like to join, should get in touch with Commander Norris, or any member of the post.

The Ladies' auxiliary of the post will meet Friday, in Memorial Hall at 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to attend.

fanfare that echoed over the suddenly hushed crowd. Wollaston held aloft a parchment and from it read the proclamation which declared the "high and mighty Prince Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David" to have inherited solely and rightfully, the rule of his father.

Edward VIII looked on from a window of the palace, unobserved by the crowd.

As Wollaston read, officers of arms were reading it in Cardiff, Wales, and Edinburgh, Scotland, and Belfast Ireland. Proclamation ceremonies were held at capitals of countries, of islands, of settlements in remote spots throughout the world.

Guns boomed from fortresses all the way from England to Hong Kong and from ships at sea.

It was a ceremony, an anachronism now, that a few centuries ago was a public necessity, to advise the people that a king was dead but that their crown authority went on under a new one.

one or more agricultural commodities designated by the secretary which equals that percentage of the normal national production of such commodities required for domestic consumption. The soil erosion bill would be amended to include a provision asserting that "depletion of the soil and the improper use of soil resources of the nation impede the orderly flow of agricultural commodities in the channels of trade, endanger the assurance of an adequate supply of such commodities at a fair price to producers and consumers, endanger the reestablishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power, and otherwise adversely affect the national welfare."

Jones Bankhead For It
Chairman Marvin Jones, D., Tex., of the house agriculture committee, made public the house text of the administration's substitute program to run for two years.

Sen. John H. Bankhead, D., Ala., made public the senate bill.

To carry out the farm program the bill specifies that it shall be the policy to broaden the purposes of the 1935 erosion act to include:

1. Preservation and improvement of soil fertility.
2. Promotion of the economic use of land.
3. Diminution of exportation and unprofitable use of natural soil resources.
4. Provision for and maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities adequate to meet domestic and foreign consumer requirements at prices fair to both producers and consumers.
5. Reestablishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power.

The secretary of agriculture is empowered to exercise whatever powers "he finds most conducive to the accomplishment of the purposes" outlined by the bill.

The secretary also would be empowered to take not only steps to control soil erosion but also any "preventive measures needed" to carry out the program. The bill provides that its execution shall be carried out by the present set-up of the agriculture adjustment administration. The secretary of agriculture would be authorized to utilize the AAA for carrying out authorized provisions of the act. Immediately after making known the text of the bill, Jones called his committee into executive session to go over typographical errors, if any, in the bill's text, so that it may be formally introduced at noon. The act applies to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The measure will now be known officially as the "soil conservation and domestic allotment act" instead of the soil erosion act of 1935.

"I put TERRAPLANE first because I put Safety First"

"Go ahead, kids... that car's got BRAKES!"

NO one needs to be reminded that safe driving in winter, more than at any other season, calls for a car that is safe.

Then why not start this new year with the "safest car on today's highways?" Terraplane—with more new and important safety features than any other low priced automobile ever had!

Bring Safety up to Date!

For safer riding, safer steering, safer stopping. Terraplane brings you Radial Safety Control (patent applied for). Here is a revolutionary principle of front axle and spring design which new owners from coast to coast are hailing as the greatest safety feature in many years.

None but the best brakes are good enough. And no other low priced car but Terraplane meets that demand with Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for). Latest and best hydraulics with a separate safety braking system that takes hold automatically if ever needed.

For added safety on the highway—greater steadiness on curves—two more
